FIST FIGHT HALTS 'GRAFT' PROBE

Nazis Angered By Schuschnigg Cry He 'Must Go'

Nazis Protest Austrian Chancellor's Failure To Praise Hitler; 'Hitch' In Friendship Pact Looms as Speech Plainly Stresses Determination to Retain Sovereignty.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Austria's Chancellor Schuschnigg had the opportunity to rally to Hitler, he failed to seize it and therefore must go into the discard—that is the reaction of a number of leading Nazis in Berlin.

Their concern is because Schuschnigg did not praise Germany's Hitler in his speech to the Austrian parliament, broadcast in Germany.

Schuschnigg stressed Austria's determination to retain her sovereignty, as against the German idea of union of German-speaking nations.

In Vienna, Austria's patriots marched into the morning hours to celebrate their chancellor's pledge.

But Austrian Nazis were angered and there were some scattered demonstrations. There was also talk of a hitch in the new Austro-German friendship draft.

Prominent Nazis in a series of midnight interviews in Berlin prefaced their remarks by emphasizing they were not speaking for Fuehrer Hitler, but held that their viewpoint was that of Nazis generally.

Hit Lack of Praise.

"Why did Schuschnigg not find the same generous words for Hitler as our fuehrer found Sunday for the Austrian chancellor?" the Nazis asked.

"Schuschnigg missed his big chance. For us he is finished. History will take its course without him.

"We got the police and the ministry of the interior as well as large sections of the army. Austria is ours."

Schuschnigg, reporting on the Feb. 12 Berchtesgaden talks with Hitler by which Austrian Nazis gained amnesty for past political offenses and won entry into the Austrian cabinet, emphasized the nation's determination to retain sovereignty.

Hitler, he said, had pledged respect for that sovereignty, although the two nations were agreed upon friendly co-operation. And, continued Schuschnigg, Nazis still were barred from Austrian political activity, except as individual members of the fatherland front, his nation's only legal political party.

Omitting mention of Hitler by name, Schuschnigg gave warm praise to Italian Premier Mussolini as one who had "always tried to avoid any impressions of interference in our internal affairs."

Hitler Hears Talk.

Hitler, in Munich last night for celebration of Nazidom's 18th birthday, listened to Schuschnigg's broadcast speech before going himself to the famous Hofbrauhaus to restate Germany's demand for return of war lost colonies.

Speaking in the hall where he had announced creation of the Nazi party, Hitler proclaimed a new drive against "Jewish agitators in Germany," said the nation

GET ADVANCE

Schools Obtain $67,000, Assure Checks for February.

Mansfield teachers were assured of their February pay checks today with the receipt of $67,000 by the board of education in an advance tax settlement from the county.

The allocation was expected to help the city's schools over a "critical period" until more funds are received from the state under the Ohio Foundation program, Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk of the board, said.

Although $50,000 of the advance settlement was designated for the general fund, Bristor said a part of it would have to be used for retiring bonds which fall due in March.

School bonds and interest payable in the next two months total $71,426.

The school's share of the first half real estate tax receipts will be about $195,000, if collections are normal, Deputy Auditor Beck said.

OFF FOR PANAMA

U. S. Army Bombers Leave Peru On Flight Homeward.

LIMA, Peru—(AP)—The six United States army bombers took off today nonstop for Panama, en route home from their goodwill flight to South America. The first ship was away at 6:05 a. m., EST, and the last at 6:17. They expected to reach Panama in about nine hours and then go on to Miami.

DANDY FOR DOBBIN

DENVER—(AP)—A horse can't be a party to a traffic accident here. Municipal Judge Philip Gilliam dismissed a man charged with leaving an accident after his auto struck a horse. The judge said the traffic code applies only to motor vehicles.

AUSTRIA FEELS POWER OF NAZIS

Protesters Jailed Following Schuschnigg's Talk Win Speedy Release.

(By International News Service)

VIENNA — The hand of the Nazi party descended on Austria today following the fighting speech by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg before the Austrian parliament last night, declaring a "fight until death" for the nation's independence.

Power of the Nazi steam-roller on this side of the Austro-German border quickly became evident when the new, pro-Hitler Austrian minister of interior ordered all Nazis arrested and jailed in last night's disorders released immediately.

This was done. And for the moment the entire nation remained quiet.

The Nazis had been arrested and herded behind bars when they objected violently to Schuschnigg's assertion that "Austria will remain free and for this we will fight until death."

In his speech Schuschnigg steered Austria into the Hitler camp but almost in the same breath reserved for his nation the right to remain independent of Nazi Germany and other powers.

Police in Vienna, Graz and other cities were kept busy quelling resultant riots and putting the angry Nazis behind jail bars. Today, however, it appeared that the Nazis had the "last laugh."

Meanwhile, it was rumored in diplomatic circles here that Schuschnigg will shortly visit Premier Mussolini in Rome.

It also was learned that Schuschnigg has earnestly urged Austrian newspaper editors to Suspect In Oregon Embezzlement Traced to Reformatory.

Traced to Mansfield by the federal bureau of investigation, Marvin Brown, 21, of Piqua, an inmate at Mansfield reformatory, today faced return to Oregon on an embezzlement charge after he completes his reformatory sentence.

Brown, who was committed to the reformatory from Miami county in January on a one-to-20-year sentence for auto theft, will not be eligible for parole until next year.

A communication to Sheriff E. P. Long from Morrow county, Oregon, said Brown was wanted there for leaving the state with $400 he had obtained from the sale of a truckload of cattle belonging to his employer.

Boy, 7, One of Two Picked Up By Sheriff In Home Robbery

Two Springfield township school pupils, one seven and the other 12 years old, were taken into custody today by Sheriff E. P. Long in connection with the robbery of a home at Ontario.

Sheriff Long and Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer, who were still investigating the case at noon today, were expected to return the boys to Mansfield this afternoon for a hearing before Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court.

Reports to the sheriff's office this forenoon said the boys' loot included some jewelry, a revolver, a pair of binoculars and possibly other articles.

School officials at Ontario said the younger boy is a second grade pupil while the older youth is in the eighth grade.

While he declined to reveal the identity of the boys, Supt. L. C. Stingel of Springfield township schools said the pupils had not been involved in any previous cases in the Ontario community.

Carroll said he had been investigating the case but could not remember the name of the family reporting the robbery. Reached at a Mansfield restaurant after his return from Ontario, Sheriff Long declined to comment on the robbery until he got back to his office.

SEC PROBERS CHECK DEALS OF 'INSIDERS'

Hold Short-Selling Activity of Small Group Largely to Blame for Crash.

DRAFTING NEW REPORT

Commission Studies Punitive Measures; Suspensions from Exchange Possible.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Fresh evidence that a small group of Wall Street "insiders" was largely responsible for the stock market crash of last fall has been gathered by SEC investigators.

At the same time, a high commission official today confirmed reports that the government is conducting a thorough inquiry into the trading activities of 11 leading market operators.

Restrictions Ordered.

A month ago, the commission revealed that these 11 individuals, all of whom are members of the New York Stock Exchange, accounted for the bulk of member short selling activities in leading securities. Largely because of the group's operations, the SEC placed drastic restrictions on short sale trading.

Since taking this action, commission investigators have continued their examination of market transactions by large traders, particularly those effected in September and October.

Evidence assembled from this inquiry will be included in a new report to be made public within a week.

The new report will not give the identity of the market operators but will attempt to prove further that their activities helped bring about the recent market upheaval.

Action Not Determined.

While the commission is convinced that the group's short sales had a detrimental effect on the stock market, the question of taking action against the members involved has not been determined.

It is understood the New York Stock Exchange is co-operating with the SEC to find out if the group has violated any trading regulations.

To date no conclusive evidence has been revealed on which to base punitive measures. Should such evidence be uncovered, the severest penalty that could be inflicted is suspension from the exchange.

PLANE MYSTERY

Britain Launches Hunt For Bomber Lost 24 Hours.

LONDON—(AP)—Scores of royal airforce planes droned ceaselessly in dawn patrol today, searching for Britain's long distance mystery plane missing more than 24 hours.

The plane, a specially built bomber and one of three planes designed for a world's non-stop flight record attempt, disappeared on a practice flight around the British Isles.

The ship left Upper Heyford, Oxfordshire, at 11:50 a. m. Wednesday and last was seen at 6 a. m. Thursday near Rothbury, Northumberland. The occupants were Flight Lieut. F. S. Gardner, Flying Officer G. J. D. Thomson and Sergt. George Higgs.

KILLED BY CAR

XENIA—(AP)—A car driven by Raymond Carded, 22, of Cambridge, O., struck and killed Ralph Moon, 55, as he stepped from a highway grader yesterday. Coroner H. C. Shuck exonerated Carder.

Proposes to Fingerprint 4,700 Rural School Pupils

Junior Red Cross to Sponsor Project With Police Training Students to Take Own Records.

More than 4,700 pupils in Richland county rural schools will be offered an opportunity to be fingerprinted within the next few weeks under a project launched today by the Junior Red Cross.

The printing which will be done by pupils trained by Mansfield police, is being made possible through the co-operation of Police Chief Meade K. Bates, E. C. Fuller, head of the identification bureau of the Mansfield police department, and Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, Mrs. W. J. Bishop, Junior Red Cross chairman, said.

"The fingerprinting is not compulsory and is being offered as a service to the parents and children," Mrs. Bishop explained.

Train Group Tomorrow.

Bates and Fuller will train the first two groups of students in fingerprinting tomorrow at the bureau office. Herbert Garnes, Senior high school student and president of the Junior council, is in charge of the school work. He and four other members of the council, and a group of five from Madison township high school will spend tomorrow at the police station learning how to take fingerprints. Next Saturday a group from Lucas schools will be trained. These specially instructed groups will take the prints in their own schools.

Through Robinson arrangements will be made for groups from each school to come to Mans-

GENERAL MOTORS CUTS SALARIES

Lops Off 10 Per Cent on Pay Up To $10,000 Annually.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of General Motors Corp., today announced reductions of 10 per cent in the pay of salaried employes receiving up to $10,000 annually and larger reductions on salaries of executives receiving higher pay.

Adjustment of compensation of salaried employes, Sloan said, was made necessary by the present contraction in sales and follows substantial reductions in earnings of the corporation's hourly workers due to the decreased number of working hours.

FACES FIGHT

Government Re-Organization Forms New Senate Rift.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's year-old request for authority to reorganize federal bureaus became today the focal point for the second bitter senate fight of this session.

The battle, which will begin Monday, is expected to last at least two weeks—not nearly so long as the anti-lynching struggle, but probably much more intense.

Administration leaders predicted eventually victory. Opponents, however, offered amendments to every major provision, although they agreed some limited reorganization should be undertaken.

In the forefront of opposition were Senators Wheeler (D.-Mont.), Byrd (D.-Va.) and Burke (D.-Neb.), who stood together a year ago against President Roosevelt's court bill.

ARMY RESTING

Insurgents Stand By After Shift For Mediterranean Drive.

HENDAYE, France—(AP)—The Spanish insurgent command halted its main Aragon army for rest today, after fanning out around Teruel to protect that conquered city.

Insurgent advices, however, said troops were in position for a renewed drive later toward the Mediterranean.

Madrid was twice shelled last night after two weeks of calm.

New Traffic Signs Start Speculation

Only Tell How Long You May Park, Not When Regulation Ends.

Mansfield was getting new parking signs today, and there seemed to be a possibility that instead of clearing up confusion over where and when and how long one may park one's car, the confusion would become greater.

On order of Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, the street department is placing new white standards, working on main downtown streets first, and replacing the familiar orange signs with the black lettering.

They're Brief.

The new signs have one advantage—they're brief, though they may not be altogether to the point. They say "Park Two Hours, and "Park Thirty Minutes."

The catch is that after 5 p. m., it's perfectly proper to ignore "Park Two Hours," and you may park as long as you wish.

The old orange and black signs contained all that information. They told you could park two hours or thirty minutes, as the case might be, that on weekdays that regulation wasn't in effect after 5 p. m., that on Saturdays it wasn't in effect after 9 p. m., and that there were no restrictions on Sundays or holidays.

Of course, it might have been necessary to read them to be sure, but that could be done. There's nothing to read on the new white ones except "Park Two Hours" or "Park Thirty Minutes."

Styert, who ordered the signs changed, said "There was too much lettering on the old ones, and complaints came from motorists that they couldn't be read easily. It's customary in all towns to lift parking regulations after the rush hour is over. Police, of course, know the ordinance, and know that cars aren't to be tagged after the rush hour. Therefore motorists can ignore the signs at night."

Mayor Claude M. Hunter was inclined to agree with Styert.

"The signs are only necessary during hours that parking is regulated, and I can't see where it's necessary to have signs covered with lettering. The new signs are far easier to read, and we've had a number of compliments on the new signs."

Differ On Code.

Someone brought up the present city traffic code. One section of that reads, in part:

"The director of public service shall cause to be designated

GEN. PERSHING IN DEATH COMA

Rallies Slightly But Doctors Fear Heart Condition Will Soon Bring End.

(By International News Service)

TUCSON, Ariz.—In a semi-coma, General John J. Pershing was fighting what appeared to be a losing battle for his life today, despite an unexpected rally.

At 1:50 a. m. (mountain time) Dr. Ronald Davidson, one of the physicians attending the noted army chieftain issued a bulletin which said:

"General Pershing has rallied somewhat, and is now semi-conscious. A stimulant and fluids have been administered."

A short time before this, Dr. Davidson announced that General Pershing was "slightly improved but still unconscious."

His heart, it was learned, was in such a state that it was feared the former commander of the American forces in the World war was nearing the end of his long career.

At his bedside were his sister, Mae Pershing, his son, Warren Pershing, Francis Warren Pershing, Frank Pershing and George Christian, of New York, an old friend.

The stout heart of the famous "Black Jack" began to grow weaker yesterday.

Westinghouse Chairman Views Future With Optimism.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A. W. Robertson, chairman of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, declared after a White House visit today that officials of his company "feel business will get better."

Robertson declined to comment on his talk with President Roosevelt, but in discussing business conditions with reporters said: "The curve of conditions has flattened out very largely in the last three months" with indications that "things will get better instead of worse."

HITS OIL NEAR TIFFIN

SPECTATORS PART THEM

Senate Officer, Attorney Both Face Charges as Probers Plan Swift Action.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A fist fight between Chairman J. Ralph Seidner of Youngstown and Warlick Rowland, Columbus attorney, threw the senate graft-hunting committee's hearing into an uproar today.

The committee, investigating the fracas immediately, adopted a resolution to cite Rowland for contempt.

Seidner's face was bruised and his glasses knocked to the floor in the brief exchange of blows outside the hearing room. Rowland was not injured.

Jail Term Threatened.

Sen. Verner E. Metcalf's resolution to cite Rowland for contempt was adopted unanimously.

The resolution said nothing would be left undone to "put him (Rowland) behind the bars in Franklin county" and it instructed the sergeant-at-arms to eject Rowland from the senate chambers.

It also asserted that the incident would be placed before the State Bar association and the common pleas court for "proper action."

Seidner met Rowland outside the room after intercepting a note to Frank Walker of Grandview, a witness before the committee. The note, which assistant sergeant-at-arms, Dan Parkinson said he wrote for Rowland, asked Walker to come outside.

The committee demanded that Parkinson resign today or it would seek his dismissal before the senate.

Asked About Note.

Seidner said that he asked Walter Glass, another assistant sergeant-at-arms, if he knew who gave him the note which Glass carried into the room.

"Glass seemed confused and there was more or less a buzzing around outside the room. A newspaper man told me Parkinson wrote the note. I told Parkinson I thought it was a terrible thing for him to do.

"Then I went up to Rowland and he said, 'we are not dealing

'Nightmare,' Says Ely Culbertson Of Five-Suit Bridge

NEW YORK—(AP)—And now, to add bedlam to confusion, comes five-suit bridge.

Ely Culbertson calls it "the bridge player's nightmare." "Most people," he said, "can't even handle four-suit bridge."

Howard Schenken of the four aces said, "I like it."

Which gives you an idea of the impending furore.

The 65-card game has Europe by the ears, just as 52-card bridge has a lot of people in the United States.

The king and queen of England recently purchased two sets, but Americans will have to wait a few weeks because the only commercialized set in this country just cleared customs.

Cards of the new suit, bearing a solid green crown on the faces, are called "Royals," the highest suit in the deck. You can play contract or auction with the new set—if you can play either with the regulation deck you have now.

4 HURT IN WRECK

Broken Rail Blamed For Golden State Train Derailment.

REED, Mo. —(INS)— A train made up in Kansas City today was bearing into Chicago passengers from the Golden State limited that was derailed near here last night, slightly injuring four persons, three of them passengers.

A broken rail caused the wreck, it was believed. Five Pullman cars, a chair car and a baggage car, as well as the coal tender were derailed, several of them rolling down a 15-foot fill.

GETS SPUDS FOR NEEDY

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio has received 920,000 pounds of Maine potatoes for distribution to needy families and 440,000 pounds more are expected later, Robert P. Owens, director of commodity distribution, announced today.

Townships Hear 'Bad News'—Little Money Left For Roads

Richland county's township trustees were told yesterday that although four-fifths of the county's low-cost secondary roads are worn out, lack of funds will prohibit anything but repairing of the worst sections of the thoroughfares in 1938.

The "bad news" came from County Engineer Howard C. Sword who spoke at the 15th annual county road meeting at the First M. E. church. More than 100 township and county officials and their guests attended the session.

Blaming increasing relief costs for the county's lack of funds for road building and maintenance, Sword told the trustees that construction programs will have to be conducted on an alternate year basis, with only hold-over projects and necessary repairs to be made this year.

"We must realize," Sword asserted, that all of the county's hard-surface roads are of the age that complete reconstruction will be necessary in another five years."

He pointed out that hurried construction of roads with cheap materials a few years ago has been responsible for the breakdown of the county's highway system under unusual weather conditions this winter.

Funds for any extensive road building program will have to come from a bond issue, he said. The county receives approximately $200,000 a year for road and

PICKS ROBINSON ON STATE GROUP

Head of County Superintendent Association Acts to Better School Bus System.

Boyd Robinson, superintendent of Richland county schools, today had been named to a committee to county superintendents to work with the state department of education in providing a better transportation system for rural school children.

Appointed by S. H. Babcock, Medina county schools head and president of the Ohio County Superintendents' association, the committee is composed of five members. Carl Coffeen of Summit county was named chairman and has been authorized by Babcock to call a meeting soon to begin a study of the school bus problem.

Other members of the committee are Charles S. Harkness, Wood county; F. L. Pollock, Monroe county, and F. R. Schofield, Geauga county.

The committee's study will coordinate with a program to be launched by the state department of education to correct weaknesses in the school transportation set-up

The school bus problem is always troublesome in Richland county where bus requirements vary acording to the topography of the land area, Robinson said

CLAIMS MAXIE BAER IS MORE SINNED AGAINST THAN SINNING.

By DAVIS S. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Probably the most misunderstood of our sterling young men of the prize ring is Maxwell Addlehead Baer, who is currently in our midst for the purpose of resuming a career that was mercifully deterred by the most sensible match the man ever made, namely, matrimony. The best that can be said for him, professionally, is that he went as far as and, indeed, a good deal farther than might be expected with his rather limited equipment.

The worst—also the least enlightening and accurate version—is what they're saying now, shortly before his meeting with Tommy Farr, the Britisher, at Madison Square Garden. They're saying that he never was meant to be a fighter; that he hasn't he stomach for it and that his brother, Buddy, has all the stuff that Max so obviously lacks. And they're wrong, both ways.

Buddy is a nice, engaging soul. But he can't fight at all. As for Max—

He can lick anyobdy he can hit with the only punch he has, a blinding right hand, and that went for Carnera, the late Ernie Schaaf and Levinsky. It still goes for Max Schmeling, supposed to be the greatest fighter in the world.

In addition, Baer probably can take a punch better than anybody now in the ring and there's only one reason he isn't as tough mentally, as he is in a physical sense. Underneath all his bluster, he's as friendly as a stray airdale. He wants everybody to like him—and you just can't feel that way and work up a first rate snarl for the benefit of the gent in the other corner. So much for Baer's complicated personality.

For the rest, he had a beautiful right hand discus-thrower's punch that came like a flash of light out of nowhere and carried him all the way to the heavyweight championship of the world. He'd still be belting guys with it if his hands had stayed whole. But they cracked up and so, in later years, he went into the ring minus the only thing that had ever made him significant.

Against Schmeling, Carnera, Levinsky and Schaaf he had looked unbeatable. Why? Because in the case of Schmeling and Carnera, they did the very thing that made his right hand punch most effective. Carnera instinctively pulled back into it. Schmeling, with his crouch, leaned well to the right and was nailed by the descending arc of the blow. Each was knocked very thoroughly out.

HE COULD hardly hope to do that with a shifting target like Joe Louis; yet he just flicked Joseph's chin in the first round with an overhand right which, knowing Joseph as we now do, would have closed the incident right there. That was Baer's one chance with Louis and he knew it wouldn't come again He had barely missed with a 1,000 to 1 shot and, having missed he might as well have never thrown the punch at all.

The rest was needless agony. Louis was pole-axing him with the toughest punches I've seen since Dempsey and finally I found myself saying, "Man, oh, man. You're not going to take any more of those, are you?" Almost as though he'd heard me. Baer collapsed to his knees and stayed there, causing some of our critics, who are always utterly fearless in a case like that, to speak slightingly of the man's courage.

It has always been this writer's idea that one more punch like that might, indeed, have knocked Baer out—but permanently. It has also been an idea of mine that, though he may be as curious a human document as we've had before us in many years, this Maxwell Adelbert Baer is not a quitter, rated off his behavior in the Louis shambles.

Or, if he is, then Goliath certainly chucked it that time with young David

Indians Entrain For Camp Tonight

CLEVELAND —(UP)— A squad of six Cleveland Indians were to leave here tonight for the Tribe's spring training base at New Orleans.

Players included in the first contingent headed south were: Pitchers Mel Harder Al Milnar and Charley Stanceau. Catcher Frankie Pytlak, and Rookie Infielders Oscar Grimes and Tommy Irwin.

ANDY GILBERT IN CITY

Red Sox Star Visits Friends Prior To Joining Danville, Va., Club.

Andy Gilbert, Mansfield Red Sox second baseman, who suffered a fractured vertabrae in mid-season last year, is in the city visiting friends preparatory to leaving for Danville, Va., where he will join the Bi-State league team there.

Gilbert, who came here from his home in Latrobe, Pa., does not expect the injury to handicap him this season. The brace on his neck was removed a month ago.

GREEN BEATS FORTE

PHILADELPHIA — Bobby Green, 118¼, Philadelphia, outpointed Tommy Forte, 117, Philadelphia, (10).

Joe Scanlon To Referee Amateur Card

Joe Scanlon, who has handled the majority of the important mitt matches in the city for many years, has been secured to serve as referee for the amateur boxing show to be staged at the Friendly House Monday night.

Mike Wentz, who, with Johnny Villella, is doing the matchmaking, made the announcement of the selection of Scanlon.

Wentz also announced a change in the semi-final bout. Beauford Glover, crack Friendly House lightweight will meet Mike Pangello of Galion instead of Al Kelley of Willard, who has withdrawn.

The card will be headed by a bout pitting Curley Miller of Mansfield, a featherweight, against Ernie McKinley, Ashland star, who recently appeared in the Golden Gloves tournament in Cleveland. McKinley was eliminated in Cleveland by one of the finalists in the 126-pound division.

In addition to the places already announced, tickets have been placed on sale at the East Side night club and Brownie's beer parlor.

All Bi-County Teams Play In City Tonight

All of the Bi-County league teams will be seen in action in Mansfield tonight.

At the Johnson Simpson court, the Simpson team, which recently cinched the title, will meet Hayesville and Shelby in a double-header, the first game starting at 6:30 p. m.

Hedges will take on Perrysville at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 p. m. in a game that will have a definite bearing on second place.

PLAY AT Y SATURDAY

The Boy Rangers meet First M. E., First Lutheran faces United Presbyterian and South Main tackles St. Pauls in Class C Church league games billed at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon.

Tygers Meet Alumni Hoopmen In Final Home Game Tonight

COACH RUSS MURPHY'S Tygers face a pretty tough assignment in their final home appearance tonight.

The Tygers engage the Alumni team in the feature game of their last cage bill to be staged at Mansfield high school this winter.

Although the Tygers will be at a disadvantage in this game due to greater height and experience of their adversaries, the Men of Murphy should make it interesting for the Alumni hoopsters.

The grads will present a lineup including all of the outstanding players of recent high school teams.

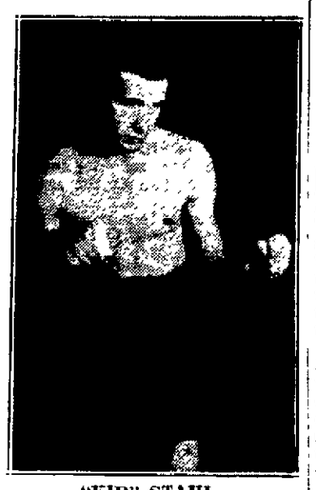
Included among the players are Noel Morgan, Al Stickler, Freddy Lewis, Russ Hoff, Inwood Smith and the Herrick twins, Clarence and Earl.

Against this strong lineup, Murphy will start a team consisting of Johnny Hallabrin, Jack Lyons, Elmer Dials, Jack Dugger and Tommy Scott. Hallabrin and Dials, the only seniors, will be playing their farewell game.

The Tygers, who closed their regular schedule against LaGrange, Ind., last week, meet Tiffin Columbian in an opening district tournament game a week from tonight in Sandusky.

A preliminary involving the Tyger reserves, who have dropped only one decision in their last 12 games, and Crestline reserves, recent victors over the Mansfield team, is scheduled at 7 p. m.

PERFORMS IN GALION



"KID" STAHL

"Kid" Stahl, former Mansfield high school athlete, will return to the ring after a short layoff tonight when he meets Joe Negrete of Galion in one of the preliminary bouts on a gymnasium benefit show to be held in the Galion armory.

Steve Barciz, Bucyrus, meets Bill Harry, Galion, in the main event, with Pat Pangello, Galion, brother of Joe, meeting Joe Gantia, Crestline, in the semi-final.

Vardon, Jones Head Golf's 'Hall of Fame'

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
(Fifth In A Series Of Six Articles)

NOTWITHSTANDING the glamour and impact of the achievements of the renowned Robert Tyre Jones, jr., probably the greatest golfing competitor of all time, there hardly can be any dispute to the award of No. 1 position in golf's "Hall of Fame" to the great stylist, champion and teacher, Harry Vardon.

Vardon was king of golf before Jones was born and 50 years old when their competitive paths first crossed, in the 1920 American open at Inverness. Yet the old master even then was good enough to dominate the field, to miss, barely, the triumph that went to his countryman, Big Ted Ray, and meantime to give a shotmaking lesson to the stripling Jones.

The comparison of the two as master and pupil is appropriate. Jones, while not actually taught by Vardon, nevertheless modelled his overlapping grip, swing and general shotmaking methods after Vardon's. Not even a Jones, however, could quite duplicate the satin smoothness of Vardon's beautiful swing. From tee to green there has been no superior in golf to Harry, at his best. It's often been said: "If Vardon only had been able to putt he'd never have been beaten."

Vardon not only was a dominant figure in the old country, where he held the open crown six times from 1896 to 1914, but he gave golf its first real stimulus in the U. S. With J. H. Taylor he come over in 1900 and won the U. S. open. The visitors attracted great attention. Stories about their golf reached the front pages at a time when the game was still considered "cow-pasture pool."

The influence of Jones upon post-war golf is hard to calculate but there is no doubt the Georgian contributed much to the game's growth, in addition to its history. Thirteen national championships, topped off by the "grand slam' of 1930, tell the story of Bob's unparalleled title flight. For eight years, it any tournament he entered, it was "the field against Jones." Yet he retired from title play before he was 30.

Hedges, Bowman Register Easy League Triumphs.

Hedges and Bowman continued in a tie for first place in the Grade School league by turning in victories at Senior high yesterday. Bowman, led by Baker's 14 points, defeated Bushnell, 26 to 6, and Hedges, paced by McBride's 13 points, whipped Western, 42 to 11.

In the other games, Carpenter trimmed Woodland, 10 to 9; Prospect won over Brinkerhoff, 15 to 12, and Newman edged West Fifth, 12 to 10.

INMATES BOW, 38-26

Drop Tilt to Rittman Shamrocks On Reformatory Court.

The Inmates of the Mansfield Reformatory suffered another setback last night by bowing to the Rittman Shamrocks, 38 to 26, at the Reformatory. The Mansfield club fought the invaders on even terms in the opening half, but couldn't maintain the pace. The score was tied, 18-all at the half, and then Rittman went ahead, 32 to 22, in the third chapter.

Hodgson and Hanger tallied 10 apiece to lead the visitors and Smith dropped in eight for the Inmates.

Seek Opponent For Clifford

Ex-Animal Trainer Slated for Semi-Final Bout.

Officials of the Mansfield Quality club were casting about today for an opponent to meet "Flash" Clifford in the semi-final of Monday's mat card in the Armory.

Clifford is one of the younger light heavyweights, but has packed more thrills into his past life than most of the veterans. Before he took up wrestling, he aided Clyde Beatty in training lions and tigers. His work did not include tours with the Beatty circus, but came in winter quarters, at Peru, Ind.

Clifford and his nameless opponent will appear in the semi-final to the card which sends Sterling Davis against Jack Claybourn in the top argument.

Ontario Again Established As Heavy Tourney Favorite

Defending Champions Remove Major Obstacle From Path by Defeating Shiloh, 31-20; Semi-Finals, Finals Scheduled Saturday.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE WARRIORS of Ontario high established themselves as outstanding favorites to retain the Richland county basketball tournament championship last night by drubbing Shiloh, Twin-Valley league champs, 31 to 20, in the feature attraction on the second round bill before a capacity crowd at Mansfield high.

Coach Orville Kibler's dribblers still face two stiff assignments before they can cop the title, however. Ontario faces the fast-improving Lexington Minutemen in the semi-finals Saturday afternoon at Senior high, and if they get by that barrier, meet the winner of the Butler-Lucas affair in the finals.

While the clubs in the championship bracket await the gun Saturday, four teams battle it out tonight at Lexington for a chance to enter the consolation semi-finals beginning at 12:30 p. m. Saturday on the Mansfield high hardwood.

Madison tackles Plymouth and Adario faces Shiloh in the consolation games tonight. The winners will clash with Bellville and Union Saturday.

Strong on Defense.

Ontario high, defending tournament champions, put on a brilliant defensive exhibition last night as they handed the Drummer Boys their second defeat of the season.

After a nip-and-tuck opening quarter that saw Shiloh emerging with a 6 to 5 lead, the Warriors, led by Prion, piled up a 15 to 6 advantage before Shiloh was able to recover from the shock.

While Kibler's athletes were accounting for 12 points, the Shiloh outfit was able to penetrate their defense for a single free throw that Shaffer dropped. Shiloh's victory chances suffered a serious blow late in the second stanza when Robert Moser, high-scoring forward, was ejected from the melee on fouls.

The Twin-Valley league title holders rallied after the intermission, but were unable to overtake the lead piled up by Ontario in the second chapter.

The famed fast-breaking Shiloh attack was completely throttled by the alert Ontarioans. Shiloh got off a clever series of passes for the first bucket which Jay Moser dumped in from under the basket, but from there on in it was all Ontario.

The Warriors led, 17 to 7, at the half and 25 to 14 going into the final frame. Prion collected 15 points to set the individual pace, while Jay Moser topped the losers with seven.

Romp to Victories.

Lexington, Butler and Lucas romped over their rivals without difficulty in the other tilts.

With Richard Rule, stellar guard, establishing a new tournament individual scoring record with 24 points, the Minutemen had little trouble smothering Adario, 59 to 12.

Bob Crawford of Lucas came near tying the record set by Rule as he rattled the backboards for 23 points to lead his team to a one-sided, 51 to 26 victory over Union. In the other affair the dangerous Butler Bulldogs walloped a fighting Bellville aggregation, 48 to 17.

Lexington limited Adario to a single free throw in the opening half to take a commanding lead that was never threatened. The Minutemen led, 14 to 0, in the opening quarter, 20 to 1 at halftime, and 33 to 5 at the end of the chapter. Creveling scored seven points to lead the losers.

The Bulldogs of Butler used every available man as they marched over Bellville. Butler went ahead, 9 to 5, in the initial frame and increased its lead to 18 to 7 at the half.

Little Kenny Miller was the offensive star, garnering 17 points for Butler. Sheriff led Bellville with nine.

Crawford dropped in 19 points in the opening half to help Lucas take a 35 to 10 lead. Tom Greulich, Richland county individual scoring leader, was held in check by Union during most of the game, but managed to get loose long enough to score nine points. Mervin Oswalt collected seven points for Union.

Chuckovits, Frascella Threaten Record

The Ohio collegiate scoring record was threatened by two players today.

Chuck Chuckovits of Toledo U. run up 15 points as the Rockets bowed to Long Island, 41 to 35, boosting his season's aggregate to 349, three short of the all-time record.

Scoring 30 points as Wooster trimmed Heidelberg, 72 to 30, Nick Frascella ran his total to 240 points.

The Rex Billiards defeated the Dinger Independents, 43 to 24, last night at the Friendly House to retain its slim lead in the Senior White league race.

Benny's Hi Notes who trail the pase setters by a single game kept close on the leaders' heels by edging a surprising Mansfield Athletic Supply quintet, 34 to 28. In the other melee, the third-place Blue Goose outfit drubbed the Zeigler Independents, 37 to 24.

The box score of the Rex Billiard-Dinger Independent game was unavailable as the league secretary failed to fill out the score sheet.

NCO Race Due To End In Tie

Wins Will Put Marion, Mt. Vernon 'In' Tonight.

Unless the tallenders come to life to acore upsets, the N.C.O. conference race will end in a tie.

Mt. Vernon plays at Ashland and Marion invades Galion tonight and the title will be shared by the two visiting teams if the results follow the dope.

A three-way tie for the title is possible only if Mt. Vernon and Marion, now sharing the van, are beaten, and Bucyrus must turn back Galion twice to achieve this distinction.

All of the teams close their conference schedules except Bucyrus and Galion, which play in Galion tonight and in the Redmen's hall Monday to play a postponed tilt.

ARMSTRONG FAVORED

CHICAGO—(AP)—With the odds 10 to 1 he will score the 33rd knockout of his sensational career, Henry Armstrong, world's featherweight boxing champion, makes his Chicago debute at international Amphitheater tonight against Everett Rightmire of Sioux City, Ia.

BOWLING SCORES

Grohol Paces Individual Scoring In League Matches With 658 Total.

PETE GROHOL of the Mill Room, Mansfield Tire league, was top man in the individual scoring lists in matches bowled at the Meder Recreation last night.

Grohol compiled a 658 total from games of 215, 200 and 243. He came through with a 634.

The best team total manufactured last night was turned in by the Mansfield Rugs of the Commercial B league who spilled 2832 pins to the pits. The Willis Billiards of the same league accounted for a 2810.

The only 600 rollers in the Commercial circuit were Fred Willis, 615, and Ed Meder, 612, of the Willis Billiards. Willis shot a 243 game.

W. C. Cleckner of the Run Outs rolled a 615 total to set the pace in the Humphryes league.

Thelma Linster and Donna Schuster pounded out respective totals of 566 and 538 to lead the Richland Printers to the high team total of 2422 in the Women's league. Linster's string included a 203.

Other 500 rollers were Sophia Meder, 529; Mary McMullen, 505, and Eberhard, 503.

CHAPTER III

"Correct," said Murray. "A short note, written either by a poorly educated American woman, or a Mexican woman, who is apparently a close friend of the supposed Sue; that they are in Tijuana, which probably would mean that they were employed in some of the places of amusement there; and that they are both under restraint or coercion of some sort—which also argues that they are members of the questionable or fast element. Right?"

Charlie Kilbourne nodded.

"But don't forget that there are a lot of decent people who make a living as entertainers, and so forth. I've—I've known some of them."

"Me too," agreed Murray. "But it's difficult—for a girl—to stay that way. Well, as I see it, dad, my job is to go to Tijuana and look into things. It's going to be like looking for a needle in a haystack, but . . . oh yes, the picture, think that will help?"

Charlie Kilbourne took a small photograph from his pocket, handed it to his son. It was the picture of a young woman, apparently dark of hair and eyes, with an oval face, which would have been beautiful had not the chin been too sharp. There was personality in the face, but the personality of selfishness, Murray thought.

"I'm afraid it won't do much good, if any," said the older man. "That was taken about the time when Sue was born. Uncle Tom said that when Sue was ten she looked a good deal like her mother—and Sue is twenty now. What a shame Uncle Tom lost his only picture of Sue, when he had that fire. That might have been something. Still, girls change a lot between ten and twenty."

"Mighty little to go on," said Murray. "But it's all we've got. I'll get on the job right away. As a matter of fact, dad, I must go to Rancho La Luz anyhow. When I stopped there on the way up, both Don Vicente and Mercedes gave me commissions to execute for them in San Diego."

"And how are they?" inquired his father.

"Both well, dad Don Vicente still lords it over the countryside, and his Mexicans seem to worship him. Mercedes—" He paused, uncertainly. "Mercedes is still Mercedes."

His father looked at him keenly. Then grinned.

"Same old situation, eh?" he asked. "Even though it's been a year since you saw her?"

"Same old situation," said Murray, ruefully "She's a year older, since I saw her last. And a year more developed, a magnificent girl. But—"

"But you still don't love her—and she still loves you—or think she does," his father finished for him.

The young man nodded.

"I really wish I could," he said. "She's—she's magnificent. Spanish all the way through. Honey and paprika, temperamentally. And smart, to boot. Don Vicente adores her, and I don't blame him. But—"

They were referring to Don Vicente Torres, who owned the great La Luz rancho, south of Tijuana on the Mexican side of the line, and his daughter, the Senorita Mercedes. Don Vicente was a cousin of Charlie Kilbourne; hence Murray and the senorita were cousins of a sort. As children they had been playmates. In youth they had been in love with each other in the mild way that youth has. Then Murray had changed—and it was, perhaps, this very change on his part—on his part first—which had caused the passionate heart of Mercedes to become more and more infatuated with her handsome relative.

"Oh, she'll get over it in time," Murray kept saying.

But she didn't.

"Tell Don Vicente, then," Charlie Kilbourne requested. "That I'll be along presently. There are a few things here at the ranch I've got to attend to first—and I must arrange to protect the mine, too—Then I'll help you try to find Tom Castle's girl."

"Fine, dad I'll probably need help. I was telling Shane O'Hara about it yesterday—and he was rather doubtful."

Early in the afternoon Murray had a horse saddled and rode over to pay his respects to Shane O'Hara and the Rose. He found the master and mistress of Rancho Soledad taking their ease beneath the broad arcade that lined the front of the old mansion. Was welcomed as only a friend is welcomed Shane O'Hara's hand was not for every man's, and the smile of Rose of Soledad was a thing to be remembered and treasured.

When he was ensconced in a big wicker easy-chair, and Rose had taken up her knitting again. . . .

"Murray," said Shane O'Hara, "I've been thinking. About this problem of yours It still doesn't look like much of a bet to me. Sorta like tryin' to find a Republican in Mississippi. But—I've got an idea that might help. You've heard of my foreman, maybe you know him. Jose Verdugo."

"I've heard him spoken of," said Murray. "But you made him foreman while I was away. What about him?"

"Well," Shane explained, "Jose is one good hombre. Bright. And faithful as a bull pup. He was Black Sam's brother, you know. Black Sam, who ran my Rancho La Paloma into a hole. Smuggling. Jose helped me round up the gang. Went to Mexico with me. And was he some help! He knows Mexicans because he is a Mexican, but he knows Tijuana, top, middle and underneath, like I know my hat He's the boy who took the Rattlesnake for a ride—even if El Viboro did get us later."

"And so," asked Murray. "what?"

"This Jose has worked his head off for a year, getting La Paloma in shape And he's done a fine job I want to reward him. He's got relatives and a lot of friends in Tijuana. I'm going to give him leave—and have him go with you on this little job you've got on your hands. As I figure it, it takes a Mexican to deal with Mexicans."

"Shane, that's fine of you," said Murray. "But—"

"No buts, Murray. You'll need him, or I'm a Chinaman. I've been up against Tijuana. You never can tell what you're going to run into. Maybe nothing Maybe an earthquake. But at best, Jose can make inquiries among people you couldn't contact. And who wouldn't tell you anything if you did contact them. So—"

"All right, Shane, and thanks." Murray was sincere in this. He could see that Jose, if he were as bright as Shane thought him, might be a lot of help.

"I've already talked to him," Shane explained. "He's all set to go. Now suppose you have a talk with him" He rose, went to the corner of the house, whistled, and a small Mexican boy raced into view.

"Si, senor," he said. "You called?"

"Yes, Manuel. Find ei senor Jose and ask him to come here"

"Si, senor," relied the boy, and dashed away.

And presently he returned, followed by a tall, lank, swarthy Mexican, wearing rough riding clothes, a broad-brimmed sombrero with a rattlesnake band caught with a silver buckle (twelve months had converted Jose Verdugo from a poorly-paid and hard-worked ranch hand into a well-to-do, jaunty, fashionably dressed foreman of a great rancho—and he knew it) and a pair of mustaches which gave his lean dark face somewhat of a ferocious aspect. But the black eyes had a twinkle in them.

Coming to the house. Jose cnucked his cigarette away, removed his hat, and bowed to Rose In silence.

"Murray," said Shane, "this is Jose Verdugo, my excellent foreman—and friend. Jose, this is senior Kilbourne, of Rancho Santa Maria"

"Jose Verdugo," said Jose, in the Spanish custom, "at your service, Don Murray."

"Glad to see you, Jose," said Murray.

"I have told Don Murray of what I have in mind," Shane explained to Jose. "That you will go with him to Tijuana, and help him with some business of his." He turned to Murray "Perhaps you'd like to take a walk and talk things over."

Murray nodded, rose and joined Jose. They could, he realized, talk more freely alone together. Wherefore he led the way to a big tree beneath was a bench, and there they seated themselves. Jose's head still uncovered out of respect to Don Murray. Although Spanish was his second tongue, Murray spoke in English. Shane O'Hara had quoted some of Jose's idioms and Murray desired to hear him talk

"Did Mr. O'Hara explain what I was going to Tijuana for?" Murray asked.

"No, Don Murray," replied Jose. "Don Shane, he say, Jose, you been work too damn hard ou thees damn rancho so better you take some monees an' go Tijuana an' have heluva time, huh? W'at you mean, helluva time. I ask heem. Oh, he say, kees the weedow . . . you know w'at she mean, kees the weedom—besa la viuda—? she drink the tequila, because one weedow she make thee best tequila w'at ess made anyw'ere. So . . . Don Shane he say kees the weedow a lot of beeg keeses, and make dances with thee girls, an' play some pokair, an' buck thee maquinas—w'at you say,—thee slot machines, an' then kees the weedow some more times, an' veeseet with my relations—an' make holee hell. Don Murray, that Don Shane O'Hara he must be one—w'at you say?—heilon—wheels one time, I betcha He understand"

Murray laughed, then sobering, said:

"Oh no, Jose, you are quite wrong. Before he was married Don Shane used to spend all his time teaching Sunday school, back in Baltimore."

"Oh, si, Don Murray," said Jose, grinning. "I am sorree that I deed not leeve in Balt'more so I could go to thees Sunday Schools w'at Don Shane teach. I theenk the studies would be mos' easy to learn But now—" he sighed—"now he has thee Rose of Soledad, an' pret' damn queek he have a rosebud in hees garden, so I theenk her he no more teach thee Sunday School, w'at? I betcha, meester.

Murray grinned—obviously Jose Verdugo was nobody's fool—and got down to business. Briefly he outlined the job that lay before him, while Jose remained silent, only nodding his brown head now and then to show that he followed. And when Murray had finished, he showed the photograph of Sue's mother to Jose.

The Mexican studied it carefully, head on one side. Then he rubbed his nose and grunted.

"Eet ees one damn good picture," he said, "but thee trouble ees that eet look like every damn woman I know. All women they look thee same on thee outside. Eet ess the eenside w'at makes thee difference, I betcha. Me, I have thee—w'at you call heem?—thee experience. From thee outside eet is not posseeble to tell whether thee inside ees one sweet angel or one great beeg devil. But I do not like thee thought that thee daughter of your friend ees in Tijuana. Tijuana ees not good place for a girl to be. Theese camereras—w'at you call heem?—thees girls who dance and seeng and dreenk with thee men . . . maybe some of them are good girls . . . quien sabe?"

"Well, how would you go about this business, Jose?"

"Me, I dunno, by damn. Eet ees funny business. How you goin' find one woman w'at you don't know hees name, or w'at he look like, or where he leeve, or w'at he do no, damn it I betcha An' eef he don' wan' to be found out, w'at you goin' do then, huh? I theenk eet ees crazee . . . but I help just thee same, Don Murray."

"But what would you do first, Jose?"

Jose scratched his black hair.

"Well, Don Murray, I theenk thee first thing I would do would be go to Tijuana and kees thee weedow. Sometime she make you theenk pret' damn good. Sometime not so damn good, huh? But the weedow he ees a woman, so eet ees not posseeble to teel w'at sh will do, I betcha . . . An' w'ile I was keesing thee weedow I would watch thee girls, thee camareras, to see who was American. But there ees many American camareras so that weel not—w'at you say?—make much ice?"

"An' w'at about thees business w'at he ees afraid to geeve hees names, eh? That ees damn funnee one. Eet looks to me like eet was—w'at you say?—one negro taking wood from thee wood pile, huh? Maybe thees letter she ees not on the up-an'-down. Maybee she makes to play somebody for thee sucker—w'at you say, thee come—with—me business. I dunno."

Action In Comedy.

In his new comedy, "Wide Open Faces," Joe E. Brown progresses from a "maitre d'Squirt" (soda jerker to you) to an amateur detective, and thereby hangs the tale. From making the best strawberry sodas in town he turns to dispensing bad medicine to bad gangsters. Jane Wyman serves as the heart interest for Brown in this comedy, with Lyda Roberti and Barbara Pepper adding pulchritude. Allison Skipworth, Alan Baxter, Lucien Littlefield, Berton Churchill and Sidney Toler have character roles. There is plenty of action, especially in the climax. The picture is current at the Madison.

Ziegfeld Star.

Fannie Brice, who is one of the stars of "Everybody Sing," showing at the Ohio, was a Ziegfeld star for 16 years and recently ended a long engagement with the show's latest edition. Miss Brice has made only four picture appearance; one was a number of years ago in "My Man," another was "Be Yourself" made by United Artists; she played herself in "The Great Ziegfeld, and her current role in "Everybody Sing." Allan Jones, Judy Garland and Reginald Owens are featured with her in this comedy of an irresponsible theatrical family.

Grand to Horse Opera.

From grand opera to horse opera is the cycle followed by Fred Scott, latest of the singing cowboys, whose pictures are beginning to flood the theaters showing Westerns. Scott, a native Californian, studied for the concert stage, and at one time sang in opera opposite Maria Jeritza. After several concert tours, he turned to pictures where his voice comes in handy in singing cowboy roles. In "Roaming Cowboy" he sings a number of Stephen Foster's America classics — "Swanee River," "Oh Suzzanah" and "Beautiful Dreamer." In addition to the Western, the Majestic offers "Scandal Street" with Lew Ayers and Louise Campbell.

That Man Again.

Scott makes a two-point landing in Mansfield today and tomorrow, for he is also booked for the Ritz in "Moonlight On The Range." His leading woman is Lois January, who has played in a number of class A pictures. Wide open spaces, cattle rustlers, a hero who resembles a notorious outlaw, are all a part of the story. Scott sings two typical Western songs, "Albuquerque" and "Sundown Trail." Lew Ayers heads the cast of the Ritz' second feature also, for he is featured with Mary Carlisle, John Howard and Benny Baker in "Hold 'Em Navy."

South Africa is carrying out a program of tree-planting to prevent malaria, as it is known malaria mosquitos breed only in pools open to sunlight.

Market Upset Only Temporarily By Break In Chrysler

STOCKS REDUCE, CANCEL LOSSES IN SECOND HOUR

Motor Issue Flops After Company Directors Fail to Take Action on Dividend.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A break in Chrysler of 2¾ points at a delayed opening of more than 10 minutes unsettled the stock market only temporarily today and leading issues later attracted buying support.

While initial losses generally ran to a point or so, these, including that of Chrysler, were reduced or cancelled near the second hour. Dealings were exceptionally quiet

The starting flop in Chrysler followed the meeting of directors after the close yesterday at which no action was taken on the dividend. Last year at this time a disbursement of $1.50 a share was voted. Before the opening here the stock was off some 3 points in London.

Bonds and commodities were slightly mixed, although grain futures improved.

Dun & Bradstreet found public spending for the country as a whole averaged unchanged to 7 per cent under last week and was 3 to 8 per cent below the corresponding period a year ago.

Restricted wholesale activities, it was added, lengthened the recession in this division from 1937 levels. While many stores were believed to be operating with greatly depleted inventories, orders for goods were reported mostly on a hand-to-mouth basis.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U S Dept of Agr)—An occasional inquiry was being received for three eights and quarter blood bright fleece wools yesterday Demands however, lacked urgency and prices buyers talked were below levels most holders were willing to consider for graded wools. Buyers intimated they would pay around 25 to 26 cents in the grease for combing three eights and quarter blood graded bright fleeces Asking prices in this market ranged mostly 27 to 29 cents in the grease for combing three eights blood and 27 to 28 cents for quarter blood.

Note Sent to Witness Leads to Blows Between Attorney, Senator Seidner.

with gentlemen.' I told him, 'you are dealing with gentlemen,' and without my pre-knowledge he struck me in the eye with his fist

"He continued to throw his fists and I grabbed him around the shoulder and held him until we were taken apart."

Rowland said later that he was standing in the corridor when Seidner demanded to know who wrote the note. He said he didn't recognize the chairman.

"Then he came toward me," Rowland asserted, "and said, 'did you write that note?' I told him I did, an he remarked, 'that's a terrible thing to do.'

"He walked right up against me, and I told him, that if witnesses before the committee were dealing with gentlemen it would not be necessary to write a note.

Says He Was Shoved.

"Then he began shoving me, with one arm up under my chin. I brought a hand up over his arm and the back of my hand struck him near the eye, knocking off his glasses Then he really began to fight I didn't want to hit him then, and don't now. So I just held him off until we were taken apart."

Rowland said the resolution condemning him was "uncalled for."

"The committee gets all worked up and does things it probably doesnt mean to," he added.

When the fight occurred the committee arose with spectators and surged through the door, where they saw Seidner rubbing his right eye and a senate employe picking his glasses from the floor

Glass and Parkinson were rebuked sharply by Committee Counsel James Metzenbaum as the committee began investigation of the incident.

Parkinson testified that he wrote the note at the suggestion of Walker's attorney and that he was under the impression Walker had been excused from the witness stand

"If you thought he were excused, why did you tell him to pretend he was going to the toilet?" Metzenbaum asked.

Parkinson replied:

"Walker is kind of backward and bashful and I didn't think that he would come out."

Metzenbaum asked Parkinson. "You were supposed to be keeping the peace, were you not?" and continued, "Why did you become a handyman for this lawyer and his client?"

"We have become a handyman for a lot of people since this investigation has been underway," replied Parkinson.

When Seidner intercepted the note, Metzenbaum refused to allow Walker to leave the room.

Earlier, Walker said he had not brought along a lawyer, but Rowland told the committee that a member of his law firm had conferred with Walker and asked him to attend, but Walker denied asking legal aid for anyone. Rowland was directed to leave the counsel table

When Walker then testified that he also had passed examinations for jobs as game protector and conservation officer, Metzenbaum commented, "getting information out of you is like pulling eye teeth"

Walker answered "no" to a question whether he had been offered a job to "keep his mouth shut."

Before the committee resumed its session today Sen Metcalf expressed belief that it would demand revocation of incorporation charters of Shaw Transport, Inc., and Hot Mixed Bituminous Paving Industry, Inc

Committee Counsel Metzenbaum yesterday pictured Shaw Transport as a "political corporation" set up to take undeserved profits from the state liquor department Previously the committee obtained testimony that the state had "overpaid enormously" for road surfacing materials, much of which were obtained from members of the Hot-Mixed group.

Seeks Duffy's Aid.

Metcalf said testimony concerning both incorporations would be turned over to Atty. Gen. Herbert S Duffy and Secretary of State William J Kennedy. The latter's department charters incorporations

Duffy said he was awaiting formal word from the graft-hunting committee before making any inquiry

Norman Parr, assistant state liquor director, was called to testify today.

Shaw Transport, one of whose stockholders is John F. Nolan, Jefferson county Democratic chairman, has a contract to transport liquor from warehouses to state liquor stores for 17 cents a case.

The actual hauling, however, is done under a sub-contract by the U. S. Truck Lines at 11½ cents a case.

This arrangement, the committee was told by Counsel James Metzenbaum, enabled the company to make a profit of 5½ cents a case on about 1,500,000 cases of liquor transported in 1937.

"The fact that the state administration and the liquor department can steal $82,000 a year from the old age pensioners of Ohio should cause an explosion from top to bottom," Metcalf asserted.

Profits of the liquor department go to old age pensions.

4 Employes, No Equipment.

Robert M. Shaw of Columbus, president, told the committee that his company had four employes and possessed no transportation equipment Two of the incorporators, he testified, were Mary Spencer and Mary Shoemaker of Steubenville, both employes of Nolan.

Although Miss Spencer is vice president, secretary and treasurer, she said she owned no stock. The 300 shares of the company stock are divided equally among Nolan, Shaw and Burt Kemmerling, a Cleveland automobile dealer, Shaw testified.

Metzenbaum declared "political pressure" was used to cause the liquor department to cancel a four-year contract with U. S. Truck Lines and to give the business to Shaw Transport. Shaw said he had no knowledge of political pressure.

The counsel, told that the liquor department cancelled U. S. Truck Lines' contract because it was dissatisfied with the service, asked why it approved the action of Shaw in turning the business back to the original hauler on a sub-contract.

Shaw said that was not his affair.

"Why didn't the department compel you to haul the liquor for 11½ cents, the price you paid to U. S. Truck Lines, instead of paying you 17 cents?" demanded Metzenbaum

Shaw was silent.

Senator Metcalf declared that the Shaw contract was identical to the previous one between the liquor department and U. S. truck lines, except that the amount of insurance required was lowered from $150,000 to $75,000, or exactly half.

Shaw said "we agreed to correct the faults" previously found with U. S. Truck Lines and Metzenbaum remarked:

"It was a case of your puny little company saying that you would see that this giant corporation with its vast investment would perform satisfactorily."

Bradley's Counsel Charges Prejudice.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Lee Bradley's attorneys sought today through an affidavit of prejudice to remove Municipal Judge Stanton Addams of East Cleveland as presiding magistrate in the perjury action instituted by Gov Martin L. Davey against his self-styled former "contact man."

Counsel for the Cleveland asphalt salesman filed the affidavit in the municipal clerk's office last night, after Judge Addams continued to Saturday a hearing to determine whether Bradley should be bound to the grand jury.

Bradley's testimony before the state senate investigating committee, alleging the governor—once his employer in the tree surgery business—solicited 1934 campaigns funds from utilities and motor companies, precipitated Davey's court action.

Attorneys Marvin C. Harrison and E. S. Byres charged Judge Addams in the affidavit with bias on six counts.

They labelled the jurist a political partisan of the governor and prejudiced because of a $2,400-a-year job as adviser in the state banking department's liquidation of the Standard Bank of Cleveland.

The state liquor control department, the affidavit said, takes all its cases in this district to Judge Addams' court, benefitting East Cleveland financially.

It quoted the judge as telling newsmen in reference to Bradley: "If what he says is true, Bradley belongs in the penitentiary. And if it isn't true, he has committed perjury and belongs there anyway."

Judge Walter McMahon, acting chief justice of common pleas court, is to receive the affidavit today.

WINS APPROVAL

Bill For Curb on War Profits Reported Favorably.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —The house military committee approved today a bill to give the president broad authority to prevent profiteering in war time.

The committee's action broke a long committee deadlock over the legislation, which President Roosevelt recommended in his national defense measure to congress.

The measure contains a provision for a universal draft of man power and industry in wartime.

The chief executive would have power to put a "ceiling" on prices, in addition the legislation provides for a "system of taxation which shall absorb all profits above a fair normal return to be fixed by congress."

Sand Pile Reveals Remains Of Indian Man, Woman.

CELINA —(UP)— Discovery of the skeletons of an Indian man and woman in a grave opened by Martin Newland, Celina, while digging in a sand pile near Fort Recovery was disclosed today.

Fort Recovery was one of the line of defense posts established by Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne in his campaign through Ohio in the late 18th century. Indian beads were found in the grave with the skeletons.

'HE MUST GO,' BERLIN SAYS OF SCHUSCHNIGG

Nazis Protest Chancellor's Failure to Praise Hitler In Speech Yesterday.

would accept no substitute for her colonies, and summarized past achievements thus:

Consolidation of Nazi power, protection of Nazis' rights externally, regaining of sovereignty over the whole reich, and regaining of equality of rights for Germany among nations.

The press, meanwhile, pointing editorials at the British trend to co-operation with Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy in efforts to reach a European peace understanding, hinted at Germany's hope to smash the Franco-Russian alliance.

Russia and France now have a mutual assistance pact that the one shall aid the other if either is attacked by a European power.

"Highly pleasing to Rome" was the reaction there to Schuschnigg's interpretation of his agreement with Hitler as meaning Austrian independence and peace between Austria and Germany.

Britain Set for 'Brass Tack' Talks.

LONDON — (INS) — Britain's momentous negotiations for European appeasement will begin next week with "brass tack" talks among London, Berlin and Rome.

It was understood today that the new German foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, will come to London to hold a series of preliminary conservations with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Lord Halifax, who has been aiding Chamberlain in conducting foreign affairs since resignation of Anthony Eden as foreign secretary.

Under the present program, Britain will open peace talks with Germany almost simultaneously with the forthcoming Anglo-Italian negotiations. The entire plan is aimed at obtaining a settlement in the Mediterranean and a general European agreement, opening the way for a four-power agreement among Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

This agreement among the four nations, if Britain's hopes bear fruit, will amount to a western European security pact.

Meanwhile, British government circles welcomed the speech in Vienna by Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg as removing a major obstacle from the path of a four-power pacification agreement.

The struggle over the resignation continued in the house of commons when a laborite, Wedgwood Benn, charged Chamberlain was deliberately attempting to gag the house over selection of Lord Halifax as the next foreign secretary.

This charge was made after Chamberlain stated he hoped to announce appointment of Eden's successor before the week-end.

In view of the opposition attitude that the new foreign secretary should be a member of the house of commons, the labor leader, Major Clement Attlee, gave formal notice that he would move for a public debate in the event Lord Halifax, a member of the house of lords, is appointed.

French Cabinet In Session Over Crisis.

PARIS—(U.P.)—Premier Camille Chautemps staked his cabinet's life today in a debate on foreign relations in the chamber of deputies.

Events of two weeks, beginning with the Austrian-German conference at Germany, and including the resignation of British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the determination of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to negotiate directly with Italy and the speech last night of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, had brought France to the start of a new, anxious phase of foreign politics.

Today, the turbulent chamber began a two-day debate on the foreign situation, at the end of which Chautemps intended to ask for a vote of confidence.

It was eloquent of the delicacy of France's position that the government went into today's chamber debate without a fixed policy. It sought to unite its own parties behind the tentative policy of keeping a common front with Britain but listening to anything that might be offered by Germany or Italy.

With the Popular Front parties themselves in disagreement, however, the cabinet was in an embarrassing position and its success in gaining a confidence vote was not taken for granted by political quarters.

INN OPERATOR FOUND GUILTY

Woman Fined $25 and Costs For Labor Law Violation.

A Mansfield restaurant operator appearing in municipal court yesterday on a charge of violating the female labor law was fined a total of $60 and costs on three different counts. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $25 of the fine.

Mrs. Margaret Dailey, operator of Margaret's Inn, 233 Park avenue east, pleaded innocent on two counts of working girl employes for more than eight hours in violation of the act. She was convicted and fined a total of $50, of which $25 was suspended. Pleading guilty to another charge of working an employe under 21 years of age after 10 p. m., Mrs. Dailey was fined $10 and costs.

Affidavits were filed by Mrs. Gertrude Weaver, a state investigator in the department of industrial relations.

ICED ROPE CARRIES SHOCK

CLEVELAND— (U.P.) — Twelve-year-old George Mason was playing with two companions in a railroad yard when he threw a rope, which was coated with ice and water, over a high tension wire alongside the tracks. Before he could release the rope young Mason was thrown to the ground by the current. He was treated for minor burns.

Youth is Over!

MIDDLE age dawns—and with it perhaps lack of energy, poor appetite, acid indigestion, gassy, sour stomach, and belching. This should not be overlooked. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stimulates the appetite and increases the flow of gastric juice, thus assisting in digestion, and you feel so much better after its use.

This tonic is made from a formula which the late Dr. R. V. Pierce found very effective when in active practice years ago. Men and women thruout the country have found it helpful. It should help you, too. Buy now of your druggist. New size, tabs. 50c.

SIMPSON SEEKS LEADERS AMONG GIRL STUDENTS

Forms Leader Class to Give Pupils Chance to Direct School Activities.

In an effort to develop leadership among girl students, John Simpson Junior high school has organized a girls' leader class with a membership of 27 girls of the eighth and ninth grades.

The new class was organized by Miss Wilma Snider, girls' physical education instructor at the school, for the purpose of developing leadership among girls at the school, and to give the girls an opportunity in directing school activities, Miss Snider said.

Those who are members of the group were selected on ten different points, scholarship, character, co-operation, loyalty, enthusiasm, personality, initiative, originality, poise, and leadership. Girls with grades below B are not eligible for membership.

Assist in Classes.

The class meets every Wednesday after school, and is given instruction and help in leadership. Throughout the week members will assist in gymnasium and health classes, and will occasionally teach an activity.

"The leaders will represent the finest type of Simpson girls, and are expected to set an example to all other girls at the school in good spirit, helpfulness, sportsmanship, and high ideals," Miss Snider said.

Eighth grade members are Audrey Anglin, Marian Burgess, Patricia Hieber, Eta Belle Hunter, Jean Keeley, Helen Melhack, Maxine Dodd, and Anna Such.

Most Beautiful (and Temperamental) They Say

Some closeup studies of Danielle Darrieux

Hollywood photographers call Danielle Darrieux, screen star recently imported from France, the most beautiful in the film capital. Directors add that she is the most temperamental of younger actresses. Danielle, who is 21 years old, green-eyed and shapely, admits she gets a little bit nervous once in a whole and "explodes." But she also says, "I want people to love me."

FOUND GUILTY

Pleading innocent to a charge of advertising as a practitioner of medicine without a certificate, a third Mansfield chiropractor, arrested last week on an affidavit filed by a state medical board investigator was fined $25 and costs in municipal court yesterday.

Entering a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Ben L. Sites, 188 West Fourth street, was convicted. He paid the fine.

Two other chiropractors arraigned on similar charges last week were fined the same amount.

HIT BY TRAIN TWICE

WALFORD, Ia.—(U.P.)—If William Stursa, Watkins, Ia., appears unduly cautious when approaching railroad crossings, he can always say he has a good reason. Twice during the same month he collided with the Milwaukee railroad train No. 108. He was injuried only once.

INDIAN STATUE GETS WIG

TUCSON, Ariz.—(U.P.)—A life-sized model of a Yaqui Indian, on exhibit at the state museum here, was bald for five months while officials searched the nation for a suitable wig. A Los Angeles firm finally sent Dr. Byron Cummings, museum director, a wig that met the demands.

BLAMES DRIVER FOR MOUNTING TRAFFIC TOLL

Safety Crusader Says 7 Leading Causes of Accidents Show He's at Fault.

The seven leading causes of automobile accidents indicate clearly that the driver himself is responsible for the mounting traffic toll, Lincoln H. Lippincott, of Chicago, national secretary of the "Not Over 50" club told members of the Kiwanis club at a luncheon meeting yesterday noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

In the order of their occurrence, Lippincott cited the major causes as exceeding the speed limits, driving on the wrong side of the road, wanton disregard for stop signs or signals, not having the right of way, cutting into a line of traffic, passing another vehicle on a curve or hill and failure to signal.

He told Kiwanis members that these causes emphasized that the first act would be found in the attitude, psysical condition and habits of the individual driver. The same methods that have proved effective in reducing the number of accidents in fleets of motor cars would not be effective among motorists, Lippincott contended.

Speed Responsible.

"The "Not Over 50" club was organized because of this individual approach was understood," he added. "Through it creed it calls the attention of the motorists to 10 basic and simple driving rules, but it placed most of its emphasis upon speed, because speed is responsible not only for the greater number of fatalities, but has caused many of the accidents which have resulted in serious injury."

He pointed out that the greatest increase in fatalities was occuring on rural highways and suggested that automobile construction and road building be subjected to a analysis.

"The present day automobile is recognized as generally a safe instrument, but instead we find that the newest cars are figuring in the worst accidents," Lippincott points out.

"Too much false security exists in the average drivers mind. This has been built up by manufacturers pointing to safety features of the modern car."

TALK ON CO-OPS

3 Farm Bureau Conferences To Be Held Here Monday.

E R. Bowen, general secretary of the Co-operative League of the United States, and M. D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, will be the principal speakers at three farm bureau conferences Monday at the Central M. E. church.

Sponsored jointly by the farm bureau and the Ohio Council of Churches, the conferences will be conducted at 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. They are open to the public.

The discussions will be concerned with the co-operative movement as it affects churches, according to Vance Clever, manager of the Richland county farm bureau. Forum periods will follow the talks.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1938.

A recession is likely to come along whenever the junior partner in the firm of Supply & Demand becomes indisposed.

Some folks go to a fortune teller to find out what's going to happen, while others prefer to enjoy the suspense.

Between his income tax and his relatives, Freddie Bartholomew seems to be little more than a medium of exchange.

To Study Workings of Government.

FIFTEEN University of Pennsylvania upper-classmen have been chosen as "public service apprentices," to make first-hand study of actual workings of government, concentrating mostly in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania.

This is an excellent idea and one that should be extended to larger groups of young men and women. Recognition of weakness is one of the first steps toward improvement—and there is surely a vast field of opportunity for improvement in "the actual workings of government" in this country.

It may well be regretted that a nation founded on the high idealism of the stated principles of government in the United States has thus far fallen much short of developing the human factors necessary to translate these principles into practice.

Until there can be greater dependence in the agencies of government, in its large and small subdivisions, there can be little of the confidence which persons chosen to positions of public trust should inspire.

Young men and young women will do well to study these things—so that they may prepare themselves to do a better job than is now being done.

Broader Conservation Urged.

AT THE RECENT sessions of the North American Wild Life conference, plans were made for pushing conservation work more effectively throughout the country. The week of March 20 has been set for a period of intensive education on the importance of all wild life resources—fish, birds, animals, flowers, trees and natural habitats.

"Our school children," complained a speaker, "are taught nothing, except spasmodically, about the vital value of conservation. They are taught why Hannibal crossed the Alps, but nothing of the importance of soil and the meaning of growing things in sustaining life."

Maybe it isn't quite so bad as that, but the conservation movement is greatly needed. Much of our soil has already been destroyed beyond repair. Many forests have been leveled, whose replacement will require many years. Some wild life, such as the passenger pigeon, has been wiped out forever.

Sponsors of the new conservation movement are interested in more than conservation of game. They seek the co-operation of government and private citizens to maintain the human food supply, prevent further soil loss, restore water levels, check floods, preserve timber supplies. They want to protect what is left and restore whatever is possible.

New License Plates Soon.

WITHIN another week motorists will have opportunity to catch a glimpse of the new license plates, use of which will be required starting April 1.

It is estimated that more than two million sets of 1938 plates will be required, each carrying an abbreviated commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the Northwest territory, with a silhouette of a covered wagon drawn by a team of oxen.

The new plates will be lettered in black on a white background, following the idea of conforming to the same general appearance with only enough change to prevent being confused with obsolete plates.

Although new plates will go on sale next Tuesday it is not permissible to use them before March 10 and they are not made mandatory until April 1.

Friendly Broadcasts.

THE Federal Communications commission has granted permission to two companies—the General Electric and the World-Wide Broadcasting company—to operate two new short wave radio stations each. The purpose is to reach South America with good North American programs to counteract the German radio broadcasts which have lately flooded the southern countries. The United States government will not operate any of the stations, but it is believed that the licenses were granted in the hope that effective competition would be provided by them.

We prefer a radio war to the military variety, if there must be international rivalry of any sort. May the new American broadcasts be artistic, entertaining and self-respecting. Such programs create good will and understanding more surely than programs planned definitely for the spread of propaganda.

Scientific Sleep-Fighting.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA students have been going without sleep again, for the world's enlightenment. Several of them stayed awake for 100 hours.

The returns are not all published yet. The principal one so far revealed to the public is the driving test. It was found that sleepy students could drive, park their cars, and so on, well enough in "short operations," but the effects of their fatigue showed in long drives on the open road. They had a hard time keeping awake and preventing their cars from wabbling.

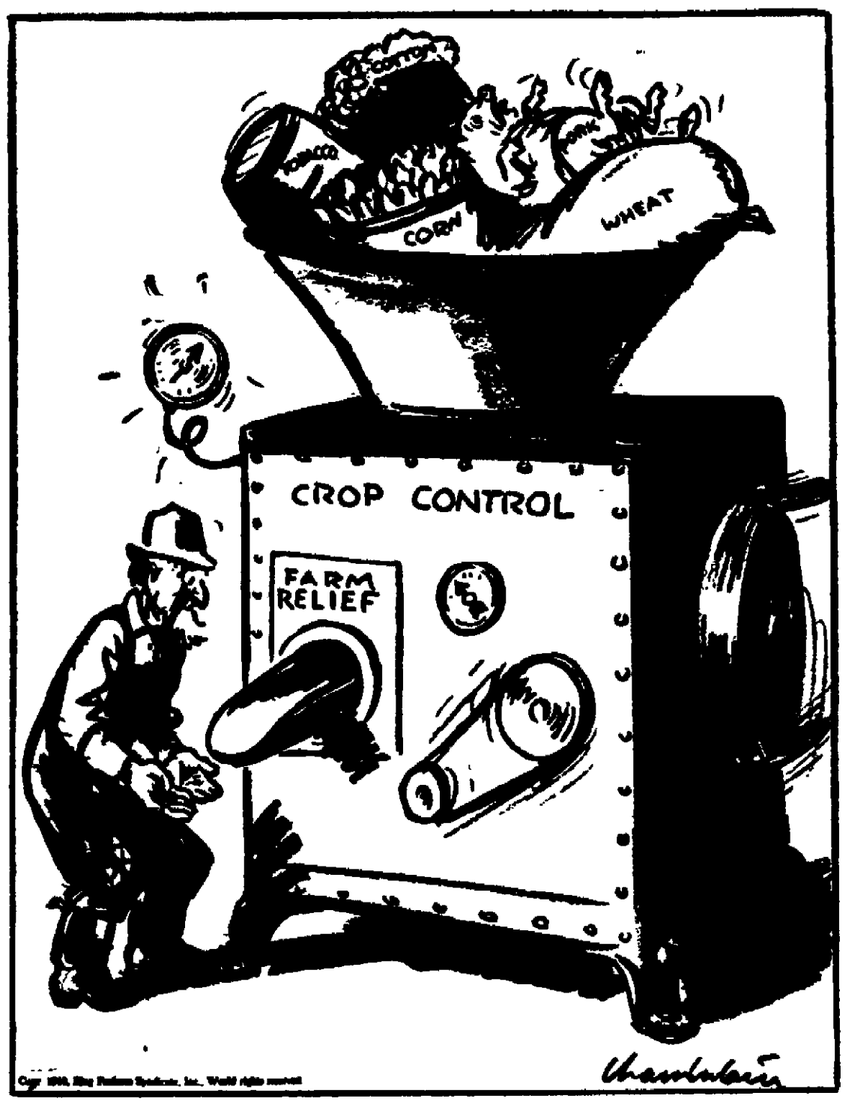
That is just what anybody would have expected. And really, is there any mystery about the effect that lack of sleep has on driving? Couldn't any cabman or long-distance truck driver or traffic policeman tell about that?

If the psychology classes want to do something useful, why don't they find out how to get the most benefit from a given number of hours' sleep?

It appears that Milwaukee has a night club that serves nothing stronger than coffee—but that wasn't what made the city famous, if memory serves.

A New York actress says she doesn't remember a thing about her fourth marriage—never having had much of a memory for trifles.

AND IT COMES OUT HERE—WE HOPE



LaFollette To Propose Civil Rights Measures

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Out of Chairman LaFollette's special senatorial civil liberties committee will come measures which, if adopted, will greatly strengthen the Bill of Rights.

As yet none has been drafted, but it is certain that facts, disclosed by the inquiry, will crystallize into bills and some may (and probably will) go to the extent of recommending constitutional amendments.

Among those sure to be offered are:

Acts to strengthen labor's position in bargaining, and abolition of spies and strike-breakers.

PRIVATE DETECTIVES.

In this connection members of the committee have pointed out that, since the investigation of the Chicago strike, some six or eight private detective agencies which specialized in furnishing spies and strike-breakers have gone out of business.

Already some states have laws restricting the employing of strikebreakers.

Among them are Kentucky, New York, Pennsylvania and Utah.

THIS TO BE PREVENTED.

During the hearings before the committee it was disclosed that a very large part of the tear gas and munition purchases of private concerns for use during strikes was turned over to municipal authorities and used by police departments. A similar practice was disclosed in county governments, whose special deputies were thus armed.

A law to prevent this practice is contemplated.

CARE IN DRAFTING LAWS.

Legal advisers of Senator La Follette's committee realize and have pointed out the necessity for extreme care in drafting the proposed measures so as to insure them against attack on the ground of unconstitutionality. Everyone concerned is well aware of this danger and is also conscious of the difficulty which confronts them in framing laws which will achieve the ends desired and still be within constitutional territory.

Guarded statements indicate the general line of procedure will be directed toward changes, by way of amendment to the constitution, rather than relying on congressional action aimed specifically at some of the alleged abuses.

Not all of the ground, however, will be covered in that way, and licensing and taxation will be called into service as enforcing agencies in the proposed acts.

WHEN TO BE PRESENTED?

No one connected with the Follette's committee realize and have pointed out the necessity committee would commit himself when I went for my interview as to the time or the number of measures which may be expected. The tangled situation now existing in congress over legislation recommended by the president, as well as proposals in which he is interested, will tend to slow up the introduction of measures such as the LaFollette committee has in view. It is realized that they will be of a highly controversial nature and if introduced now would add fuel to the flames of debate in both senate and house, and would doubtless suffer in consequence.

STRICT REGULATIONS.

This much is certain; an effort will be made to write into law regulations, more strict than any now existing, of the relation between employer and employe and the vast mass of evidence adduced by the committee on labor troubles will form the basis of these proposed regulatory acts.

Medicine In Early America Revealed By Old Diary

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

APPROPRIATE reading around Washington's birthday, especially for its medical reminiscence, is Dr. Cecil Drinker's book "Not So Long Ago." It consists in excerpts from his great-great-grandmother's diary. She lived in Philadelphia: the diary covers the years from 1758 to 1807.

It gives a very good picture of medical practice in those colonial days; Mrs. Drinker took a lively interest in sickness, a trait that she apparently handed down to her descendants, for Dr. Drinker, the editor of the diary, is distinguished as the inventor of the iron lung, so well publicized today in the treatment of infantile paralysis

They lived in what would be a queer world to us. Everything we instinctively do when faced with sickness was unknown to them. Smallpox vaccination, ether and asepsis in surgical operations, and in childbirth, the stethoscope, the clinical thermometer, bathtubs, the hypodermic syringe, were all unknown.

In 1803, indeed, the Drinkers did become possessed of a bathtub—made of wood lined with tin and painted, with casters under ye bottom and a brass lock to let out the water, costing 17 dollars. They frequently lent it to neighbors who had illness in their homes.

Most of the medicine practiced was domestic, the administration of home remedies by the mother of the family. 'Sam Lewis, a little boy from Sleepy Creek, came to live with us; he had the itch; which I basted him on the seventh night with brimstone"—brimstone being sulphur, was good treatment, sulphur ointment being the approved treatment today.

Child Swallows Pin.

"Oct. 29, 1799. Elizabeth has just swallowed a pin. I made her take a raw egg, white and yolk. It is what frequently happens to children, and it is admirable that so few bad consequences follow—it slips down the common sewer with other things, and kind nature often avoids calamity."

In 1796, the Drinkers encountered the most famous of American quacks. Elisha Perkins was a shrewd son of Connecticut, who felt that he did his patients a great deal of good as he passed his hands over them in the course of examination. He ascribed this to electro-magnetic influences, and thought they would be more powerful if he used metals. So he constructed a pair of tractors, one brass and the other steel, and applied them at different points on the body with apparent great success in many diseases.

March 23, 1796, the diary records Elisha Perkins, or Dr. Perkins, "was here this afternoon and operated on H. D. with his metallic instruments for the rheumatism; if my faith is necessary to the cure, I fear 'tis not compleat," says the shrewd old lady.

Elisha Perkins has gone his way and one no longer hears of the metal tractors, but the credulity and superstition that made him famous still exists, and people fall for Abram machines and a thousand fancy treatments.

America Thinks—

(Or Does It?)

Judging from what has been read, heard, and said, observes the March Commentator, any citizen (or alien) is a little queer if he does not believe:

That if Franklin D. Roosevelt had lived in the time of Noah, there wouldn't have been a flood

That the human race has never been secure until recently because they failed to enact Social Security laws.

* * *

That if a politician tells us he is in favor of peace, he knows how to keep us out of war.

That the Japanese could never beat us because they live on little islands.

That poverty would be eliminated if every American had a garden of his own, and commuted.

That the United States always loses in international conferences, because foreigners do not understand us.

That rich people donate to charities so that the underprivileged masses will not overthrow the system.

FROM the principal's office of Dayton Height Elementary school in Los Angeles, Calif., comes an 8-per-cut with all the authority of a Joe Louis behind it. Another one of those Oldster's Comments on the Younger Generation. But oo-la-la—what a headache it's going to give many a Mom n' Dad!

"WE HAVE," says Principal James S. Lacy "A PARENTS' PROBLEM—NOT A YOUTH PROBLEM." Just like that—and you can take it or leave it!

"During my 29 years' experience with children, I find them invariably reflecting our own qualities—for good or evil. Life's beautiful blossoms — courtesy, self-reliance, persistence, reverence of beauty and nobility — these grow in the garden of Youth when and if that garden is tended by adults with the same qualities. OUR CHILDREN ARE AS FINE, AS STRONG AS THE EXAMPLE WE OURSELVES SET.

"In our school, my teachers and I refuse to be dictators. We make partners of our pupils—and a glorious adventure of LIVING. We know there is no magic in MERE LEARNING . . . nor in servile imitation. So we do not put our faith in preachments—nor the big sticks. We try to help our boys and girls shape their own fine codes . . . make their own decisions and learn to abide by them.

"Instead or doing all their thinking for them until they are grown, and then blaming or punishing them because they are weak, irresponsible, lacking in balance and consideration for others, we help our children to analyze and evaluate their acts as they go along—to face their failure or success, and determine the reasons and results.

"When they blunder, we never quarrel, nag or punish. NO ERROR WAS EVER CORRECTED BY FORCE OR FEAR. We simply help them find ways to correct their mistakes and plan their programs better. So they learn, naturally and without compulsion, that THE THOUGHTFUL LIFE IS MOST SATISFACTORY.

"The so-called 'youth problem', is actually a problem of parents and teachers facing their primary responsibility—that is, of helping children learn self-determination, self-control, and how to find their place in life."

James Samuel Lacy—age 50
Principal, Dayton Heights, Elementary School
Los Angeles, Calif.

There's a letter that's Big Medicine, not merely for the school room and home, but for every human anywhere, anyhow. Go into the streets. Down the back alleys. Into flop houses. Into shabby, stagnant rooms where men and women sit brooding, smoking endless chain cigarettes. Into confessionals—and morgues. Through six-foot-thick, gray stone walls, where men stalk constantly, guns cocked and aimed. Into your own discouraged heart, perhaps! Go into any place where there's hate instead of hope, despair instead of determination, cancerous anger instead of ambition—AND THAT LETTER WILL GIVE YOU BOTH CLUE AND CURE FOR THE MORTAL AGONY.

People aren't born bad...are born weak...born lazy or irresolute. All people, except the hopelessly ill or idiotic, are born with the making of strength and decency. But they should be taught how to mold and maneuver those makings.

They should be guided into a mastery of themselves and of circumstances, as James Lacy and his assistants are now guiding a fortunate few.

But, unfortunately, for every such wise teacher or parent, there are five others who are indifferent or sentimental or dictatorial. The Coddlers . . . the Can't-be-bothered . . . the Mama-knows-best Potentates . . . who either steam-roller plastic spirits into their personal pattern—or abandon them to the wolves. They are AMERICA'S PARENT PROBLEM, infinitely more vicious and demoralizing than any ruckus ever raised by Flaming Youth.

Queer—how we let them do things like that to children. But suppose they tried it on a ten-dollar pup?

Timely Editorial

Why Murder Is Common.

A crime expert who has just completed a survey, reports, among other things, that while America has a grand total of approximately 10,000 murders a year, only 170 of the convicted persons are executed.

Maybe this explains the prevalence of murder. If a larger proportion of the murderers were forced to pay the supreme penalty, it is possible that the sanctity of human life would be more widely recognized.

Weak-minded juries, conscienceless lawyers and sentimental parole boards are prime factors in the nation's criminal record. Their displacement, along with a general strengthening of punitive measures, offers the chief hope of a more noticeable trend toward law-abiding conduct. — Newark Advocate.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

How to Get Just Wages.

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University.

No one has ever discovered or devised a better means of determining a just or proper price for any goods or service than fair or pure competition. Difficulties and controversies regarding the fairness of certain prices arise when pure competition does not exist — when some monopolistic influence is present.

This monopoly power exists when and to the extent that the buyer or seller can control the price at which he buys or sells.

Pure or fair competition between employers and employes ordinarily does not exist. Usually the individual employe is at a distinct disadvantage, or even helpless in attempting to meet an employer on even terms. Consequently, employes have attempted to utilize unions as a means of giving themselves greater equality in bargaining with employers.

Any device which tends to equalize bargaining powers, so that fair or pure competition may exist, appears to be thoroughly defensible and in harmony with the lessons and principle of economics. This fact is recognized in a general way in our numerous efforts to protect the weak against the strong, and in our regulation of monopolies and of others who hold the whip-hand in bargaining and in the fixing of prices.

One purpose of the Wagner labor relations act was to encourage the development of labor organizations so that employes could bargain with employers on a basis of equality. This purpose of the act, like that of any other act which contributes to equality of competition, is certainly defensible and economically sound. But there is a fundamental aspect of this law to which particular attention should be directed.

If we could assume that this act gave organized employes equal power with employers in bargaining, what does the law provide for when these bargainers of equal strength cannot agree on wage terms or working conditions? It leaves organized labor and employers with no alternative but to fight it out. The employes resort to strikes and picketing; the employers stop production.

Now all thoughtful people know that justice is not assured by fighting over any issue. Rather, justice is to be attained when the issues in dispute are weighed and a decision rendered by an informed and impartial court. For these reasons we have established courts, low and high, throughout the land; and, rather than permit people, so disposed, to fight over matters in dispute, they are required to resort to the courts in an effort to reach rational and peaceful settlements.

But in two extremely important spheres of human relations we have not been willing to rely upon arbitration — we still cling to the barbaric method of fighting it out. These spheres are in international and employe-employer relations. In the case of the former, nationalism and a variety of other reasons have prevented compulsory arbitration to replace war. In the case of employe-employer relations the desires of politicians to obtain the support of organized labor groups have been the principal reason for the perpetuation of this modern barbarism.

The Wagner labor act has in it this major flaw, and the question is why should either organized labor or the employers be compelled to fight each other for justice? Strikes and lockouts are costly to employes, to employers, and to society. They are irrational and should be prohibited.

The answer lies in providing the machinery for compulsory arbitration, if negotiation and mediation fail. And while the issues are being negotiated, or mediated, or arbitrated, production and employment should continue without interruption. If the decision of the arbitration authority, representing employes, employers, and the government, is unsatisfactory to the employer, or perhaps will force him into bankruptcy, he should be permitted to close his factory and to go out of business. If the employes are dissatisfied, they should be permitted to resign, individually or collectively, and to seek positions elsewhere. The employer could then attempt to replace these employes. Such resignations would not be strikes; they would be definite and permanent withdrawals.

Such an arrangement should permit competition to operate as smoothly as it can, considering the nature of the supply and demand factors involved, with the consequence that both employes and employers should receive fair treatment in so far as human intelligence can ever attain it. Strikes, picketing, lockouts, strife, and the resulting losses should disappear. The costs of labor union activities to laborers should be reduced sharply.

The political agitation, drives, and control which labor leaders and employers attempt to exercise, because employes and employers fight each other rather than co-operate and arbitrate, should be minimized. From every point of view, the result should be beneficial to all persons concerned.

To a Brave Invalid.

Here in this tiny room you live
Heroic nights and days;
I pay a tribute to your heart
But all my words of praise
Are not enough for you and those
Who like you in four walls
Courageous go on meeting hours
With strength for which this calls.

High heart from your brave kind, I learn
More than my pen can write.
Such as yourself lead all of us
Up to new realms of light.

THOUGHTS while strolling: For the Wonder Girl Club—Marion Gillespie, who has never seen "Tobacco Road." Still another cowboy humorist from Oklahoma: Cal Tinney. Suggestion for a mystery play title: "In a Room Off Times Square." Popular radio executive: John Royal.

Add colorful gowns: Those of Mrs. Roy Howard and Hattie Bell Johnston. They say J. P. Morgan always stops to see a window display of pipes. Frank Craven looks the same as he did 25 years ago. The Stork Club is out front with the debutantes. Eyes alike: Cole Porter and George Jean Nathan.

No one ever knew the box office value of vaudeville folk so precisely as Eddie Darling. Benny Goodman is just a new time Ted Lewis letting himself go. The New Deal's Forgotten Boy—Raymond Moley. Can't imagine William Rhinelander Stewart busting out into a hearty o-ho!

The forlorn-looking Eddie Ducin. Not many could pique the interest of the night club crowds more than Fannie Ward, rounding in at 3 a. m. all merry and bright. And where is she now? The Waldorf. Mr. Boomer and his fancy trelli of sideburns. Without that eye sparkle, Sonja Henie would be just another skater.

Not many men who wouldn't give a lot to look like Clark Gable in a turtle neck sweater or Noel Coward in a white silk muffler. The handsome former polo star, Larry Waterbury. A liveried footman in a limousine. Yoo hoo, those economic royalists are in again!

Phillips Lord, who started his radio career with his impersonations of th back-woodsy Seth Parker, has finally become city broke. For along time he clung to his native Maine traditions, but today step out in tails now and then to wite-tie it around night haunts. There are even rumors he has been sighted in spats. Lord is 3, married and the father of five children. He has a home and yacht on Long Island, a penthouse in Manhattan and a three and a half mile water front estate in Maine. His father is the Rev. A. J. Lord, of Meriden, Ct., who continues to preach to his faithful weekly.

Young Jack Osterman is receiving the Broadway plaudits for his behaviourisms in plodding over the come-back trail. In partial eclipse, he is a strict patron of the milk depots and has had several night club engagements which he filled capably and is now receiving nibbles from the Hollywood studios as a gag man.

The exceedingly beautiful Rosamond Pinchot's suicide was really a study in stage-struck frustration. Her enthusiasm for the theater was a consuming passion, and although she attained a degree of success, she wanted her name blazing over a marquee. I once sat next her at dinner and her entire talk was of the play and players. What did I think of Katharine Cornell, Helen Hayes and Meredith Burgess? Born to wealth and social position, she preferred the performers of stage and screen and the gatherings of these were about the only parties she attended. Such enthusiasms are difficult to understand but there are many.

The strike of the theater box office fellows did not winnow deep sympathy from the public which has suffered considerable snooting from them. There are a few splendid men in such posts, but as a class they are insufferable and have contributed to weaning many from the theater. John Chapman observes, however, that the ticket sellers are the only persons who can wear any sort of trousers with a dinner coat. Nobody sees them below the waist.

Unlike Frenchmen, few Americans tip the wine steward. They take care of the waiter, captain and head waiter, but rarely the sommelier. Probably for the practical reason he does little—just pours. And often the captain relieves him of that chore. I never ran across a wine waiter who did not glow at a swapping of ideas and a jet of stylish talk about vintages. And like most persons who think they know wine, he soon proves he knows little. But they appreciate communion of interest. My favorite wine steward is the black-aproned Chaplin who gets powdered nightly on heel-taps from customers' bottles at l'Escargot in Paris. He's been at it 30 years. And then the dignified sommelier at El Morocco, the General Grant looking fellow with the gorgeous side clips. A pip of a casting job for what Abel Green calls a chichi jernt.

SUPER HIGHWAY ON TOLL BASIS

New Construction Project Seen as First of Chain Extending Over U. S.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—A commission of four engineers are making plans for an "all-weather" highway between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, which may be the first of a chain of superhighways stretching from coast to coast.

Samuel W. Marshall, member of the Turnpike Commission, appointed to work out the many engineering details of the highway, 160 miles long, stresses the "all-weather" aspect of the proposed highway.

Constructed over an abandoned railroad right-of-way, the new highway would not be exposed to hazardous fogs and conditions which menace traffic on the Lincoln and William Penn Highways, Marshall said.

The commission is studying the question of lighting the seven miles of tunnels through which the highway will run.

He said the "super-highway" will have no speed limit and no red lights. Traffic hazards will be reduced to a minimum. There will be, according to present plans, only four overhead railroad crossings and four contemplated outlets.

The highway will have four lanes divided by a planted strip of land, according to Marshall. There will be 13 toll stations, Marshall said, to accommodate motorists using only a part of the route.

He estimated that the toll would be $1 or $2, the money to be used to liquidate the project.

A force of 200 men have been excavating and draining the tunnels, Marshall said, and an additional 400 men are expected to be put to work by next spring when the task of financing the project will be completed.

EARNINGS DOWN

1,300,000 Fewer Workers in January, U. S. Reports.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Perkins has reported that employment and wage earners' incomes showed a marked reduction during January.

"It is estimated that there were 1,300,000 fewer workers employed on non-agricultural jobs in January than in December," she said.

"This reduction, coupled with the declines of November and December, has brought employment down by 2,800,000 since October.

"The decrease in total wages from the December level amounted to nearly $20,000,000 a week."

4 Killed as Airplanes Crash In West

TITLED GUESTS DIE IN HEARST RANCH MISHAP

British Visitors Killed When Plane Breaks Into Flames; 1 Dead at Reno.

(By United Press)

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal.—Two titled English guests and the pilot who was flying them to visit William Randolph Hearst in one of the publisher's airplanes died in a flaming crash in a fog on Hearst's San Simeon ranch near here.

The dead:

Baron Terence Conyngham Plunket, of Newton, 38, sixth baron of Plunket, member of the Irish parliament, and close friend of King George of England.

Lady Dorothe Mabel Plunket, 38, daughter of Fanny Ward, the actress, heiress to a $3,000,000 fortune, and a lady-in-waiting to Queen Elizabeth.

Pilot P. J. (Tex) Phillips, of Burbank, Cal., a motorcycle policeman who flew for Hearst in his spare time.

Third Guest Hurt.

A third guest was seriously injured. James Lawrence, son of Sir Walter Lawrence, a London contractor, was burned and one of his ankles was fractured.

The plane overshot the private airport on the ranch yesterday and crashed about four miles from the big hilltop mansion where Hearst and other friends were waiting to welcome them.

Phillips took off with his passengers from Union Air Terminal at Burbank about 3 p. m. Near the end of the 150-mile flight he encountered a seacoast fog and missed the ranch airport by about one mile. Too late, the pilot apparently discovered the error and turned back, but one wing scraped the ground as he banked through the fog. The big all-metal plane keeled over and burst into flames.

CRASHES AT AIRPORT

RENO, Nev.—(INS)—Adolph Spreckles' privately-owned plane crashed at Reno airport early today, killing Pilot Bob Hancock, and injuring the sugar heir, his ex-wife, Mrs. Louis Clark De Ruyter Spreckles of New York, Mrs. Alex Young, San Francisco society woman, and Leslie Rex, also of San Francisco.

Mrs. Young was reported critically injured.

Spreckles, his former wife and Rex were not seriously injured, according to airport attendants who administered first aid after rescuing them from the plane which crashed from an altitude of 100 feet.

'PET' BECOMES RICHEST DOG

Court Gives Spitz Sole Possession of $30,000 Estate.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—"Pet," a little white Eskimo Spitz, had no worries today. A circuit court order made him Chicago's richest dog, assured of an annual income from a $30,000 estate.

The money was left in trust by his 70-year-old mistress, Margaret McDermott, who died in June, 1935, and whose allocation of her estate was contested by Martin Clark and Mary Pendergast, her cousins. They charged she was incompetent.

Judge Joseph Burke upheld the will after heaing only the testimony of Miss McDermott's attorney, Oscar A. Ross.

A Farmer's Diary

Feb. 25.

THIS evening I wanted some straw to keep a small ditch which started last week from washing deeper. I could easily carry large forkfuls from the stack to the place it was needed most, as the distance was not great.

I always feel regret when I see that potent, life-giving inch of top soil, the wealth of all ages, stolen away before our very eyes. All the insect pests, droughts, noxious weeds, and growth of crops combined, do not cause as great a loss as this giant enemy erosion. And thus I determined to stop this loss, in an important part of my own field. I carried the wet and scattered portion of the straw where it would serve its purpose best; the drier straw I dragged farther down.

I carefully placed my fork in the topmost pile, and pulled it in a mighty heap down to where I stood, then dragged the mass, intact, to the farther end of the ditch. I took the crusted oval top off first, and there,to my surprise, I saw a soft, little, down nest, quivering with lusty life. The mother, frighened, squeaked a warning note to her offspring, and dashed to safety in the other straw. The four little mice shivered in the wind and ran for protection among the stubbles of the snowy, field. I met these little folk a an evil hour.

"The best laid schemes o' mice an' men,
Gang oft agley
An' lea'e us naught but grief an' pain
For promis'd joy."

field for instructions. It is expected that the project will reach 4,700 students in the county, exclusive of Mansfield.

Once the service is started in a school, it will be maintained, Mrs. Bishop said, for every incoming student that desires it. Fingerprints, by which a child may be identified in case of kidnaping, disappearance or a disaster of any kind, will be filed three ways; prints of all fingers will be filed with the civilian prints at Washington, D. C., and with the Mansfield Bureau of Identification, and a print of the index finger will be given to the parents.

Red Cross officials point out that after the Texas school disaster last year in which more than 100 bodies were identified only by their fingerprints which had been made previously, schools all over the country began registering children through this system.

Approximately 1,500 Shelby school children will be fingerprinted on the Junior Red Cross program, but the project there will be worked out with the Shelby police department, according to Mrs. Lewis Paterson, chairman of the Shelby Junior group.

WEIGHS CASE

Appeals Court Takes Flood Suit Under Advisement.

MOUNT VERNON —(AP)— The fifth district court of appeals took under advisement yesterday the Muskingum conservancy district's appeal from a court order restraining the district from making a $1,500,000 bond issue to be financed by levies on taxpayers The court said a decision might be returned next week.

Common Pleas Judge Clarence U. Ahl of Bucyrus granted the restrainer last Nov. 23. The bonds would be retired over a 10-year period by levies on real estate in the district's 14 counties.

During the appeal hearing, Appellate Judge Clyde C. Sherick asked Robert N. Wilkin, district counsel, concerning the district's power for levying general taxes and special assessments to finance its $6,500,000 share of the flood control project's cost. Wilkin said no definite line of demarcation had been drawn.

TWO RED CROSS WORKERS LEAVE

First Aid Instructor to Conduct Class at Marion.

Two Red Cross workers from national headquarters who have been in Mansfield for some time, left today for other assignments.

Dr. Albert H. Sharpe, Washington, field instructor in first aid, will go to Marion to train first aid instructors there, after having spent two weeks with the Richland County chapter. He instructed a class of 65 who came from Mansfield, Shelby, Ashland and Norwalk.

Miss Virginia Venemann, Washington, will return to national headquarters for further training before being assigned to an eastern chapter. She has been in training under Gertrude B. English, executive secretary of the county chapter, for the past month.

Double Murderer Pays With Life in Sing Sing Death House.

OSSINING, N. Y.—(INS)—There were no claimants today for the body of Charles J. Brown, 30, who died in Sing Sing's electric chair for a double murder.

Brown, colored, went to the chair without naming the "preacher" he claimed was his father and with a record of having spent eight months in the death house without having had a single visitor.

He died for the murder of Mr. and Mrs Isadore Handelman in Ellenville, slain in a robbery of their home. After killing the couple Brown fired the house to conceal his crime.

by signs with the hours printed thereon, the places where parking is restricted."

The mayor, asked if he thought the new type signs complied with the code, said he thought they did.

"It's a matter of interpretation," he explained. "The signs tell how long it is permissible to park. That's my interpretation of it."

He admitted the wording of the ordinance could be interpreted to mean that the signs should bear the hours between which parking was restricted. He said several police officers agreed with his interpretation.

How many Mansfield motorists know that there are no parking restrictions after 5 p. m. on weekdays and after 9 p. m. on Saturday, seemed to be an open question.

INDICTS 2 IN POLICE SLAYING

Jury Returns Charges in Death of Hamilton Policeman.

HAMILTON — (AP) — John W. Cline, 24, and his brother-in-law, Chester Francis, 19, were indicted by the Butler county grand jury today on charges of first degree murder in the fatal shooting Jan. 27 of Patrolman Aaron Laubach.

The indictments charged that Laubach's death occurred "in the perpetration of a robbery"—that of a filling station. Police Chief John C. Calhoun said both men had confessed the killing.

Also indicted on a first degree murder count was Elisha Thompson, 61, held since Jan. 24 in the death of his estranged wife, Elizabeth.

MEAT DOLLAR 'GROWS' 30 CENTS

Decline In Prices 31 to 45 Per Cent, Producers Told.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.)—The consumer's meat dollar goes 30 cents farther than six months ago, those attending the 13th annual meeting of the Producers' Co-op Commission association were told by R. C. Pollack, Chicago, general manager of the National Livestock and Meat board.

Pollack estimated the decline in prices of different meats ranged from 31 to 45 per cent.

UNKLE'S CHARGES RESULT IN POLICE INTIMIDATION PROBE

TOLEDO —(AP)— Charging Councilman Ira Bame with efforts to intimidate police in the discharge of their duties, John N. Edy, city manager, today appealed to city council to protect the administration from what he termed "the continued and demoralizing interference by Councilman Bame."

The appeal was made in a letter addressed by Edy to Mayor Roy Start and all members of council.

With the letter went copies of a memorandum prepared by the city manager and also reports from Police Chief Ray Allen and Detecive Merle D. Unkle, head of the police morals squad. Unkle formerly was chief of police of Mansfield.

The charges of attempted intimidation revolve around a raid last Monday in which several men were arrested and charged with engaging in a game of chance.

Many numbers slips were confiscated in the raid, Chief Allen said. Among the prisoners was a man who gave the name of Herman Solomon, who, Detective Unkle says in his letter "is a brother-in-law" of Councilman Bame.

An hour after the raid, Unkle said, Councilman Bame came to his office and "raised hell about me arresting a kid whom, he said, is his brother-in-law."

The detective said Bame asked him to release Solomon from the charge and not to prosecute him.

Bame made a complete denial of interference with the police department or any other city department or of trying to intimidate officers. He said his conversations with Detective Unkle, and Chief Allen were of a legal nature.

Farmer, 30, Admits Sending Extortion Letter To Gable

FONDA, Ia.—(U.P.)—A husky, unemployed farm worker admitted to federal agents today that he sent a $1,000 extortion note to Screen Actor Clark Gable to "spite" a pretty young widow who spurned his love.

Gaylor Forsyth, 30, mailed the note to Gable two weeks ago, signing the name of Mrs. Alice Schnetter, 20, member of a respected Iowa family. He said he had no plans for doing anything more than sending the letter.

"I did it for spite," he said. "I fell in love with her, but she wouldn't pay any attention to me. Her father wouldn't let me near his place."

G-men slipped into this little community yesterday, arrested Forsyth and transferred him to the county jail at Pocahontas before townsfolk, and even the town marshal, learned of the case.

L. M. Chipman, chief of the Des Moines office of the federal bureau of investigation, said Forsyth, who had no criminal record, was traced through his handwriting.

Los Angeles Woman Celebrates With 5-Mile Splash.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Mrs. Anna Van Sike celebrated her 77th birthday by swimming five miles in an indoor pool.

"I am a bit muscle-bound," she said, "or I would have done my annual ten miles in the water. I could do it over again right now, and next year I am sure I will do the ten miles."

The swim took her nine hours. Past birthday swims have been in the ocean.

FIVE INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

Mansfielder and Four from West Salem Figure in Crash Near Ashland.

One Mansfield and four West Salem residents were in Mansfield and Ashland hospitals today suffering from injuries received in an auto accident Thursday on route 42, four miles south of Ashland.

Confined to Mansfield General hospital is O. P. Anderson, 86 Parkwood boulevard. Anderson suffered a severe cut on the head, and shoulder, back and chest injuries. His condition was reported today as fair.

Taken to the Samaritan hospital in Ashland were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Reed, and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hottel, all of West Salem. Reed suffered chest and possible internal injuries, and Mrs. Reed a fractured skull. Mr. and Mrs. Hottel both received head and back injuries.

State Highway Patrolman R. L. Doebel said Reed's car skidded on the wet pavement into the path of Anderson's machine which was going north. Anderson was alone in the car.

C. B. Taylor, 62, 122 Highland avenue, was treated at General hospital for bruises about the face and chest, suffered when his car ran into a ditch, striking a concrete pillar, after the steering apparatus failed to function. The accident occurred at 8 p. m. Thursday on route 42, south of the city. Taylor was removed to his home after receiving treatment at the hospital.

3 SCOUTS GET HIGHEST RANK AT AREA COURT

Eagle Badges Among Awards Presented to 22 Boys at District Gathering.

With parents and friends looking on, three Boy Scouts of the Johnny Appleseed Area were advanced to the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest in scouting, at an area court of honor last night at the Elks' home.

The Eagle rank was conferred on Kenneth Sherer of Galion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherer; Russell Sherer of Leesville, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sherer, and Harold Maxhimer of Ashland, son of Mrs. Floy Maxhimer.

Ten other scouts of the area were advanced to the rank of Star scout, and three received the rank of Life scout. Silver, gold, and bronze palms were awarded to four, and service awards were given to two scouters from Mansfield troops.

The presentation of Eagle badges was made by L. A. Ott, president of the Johnny Appleseed Area, and the awards were received by the mothers of the three scouts who in turn pinned the badges on the uniform of their son. The Eagle scouts then presented their mothers with miniature Eagle badges.

10 Get Star Rank.

The ten scouts who received the Star rank were Edward Arlin, Harry Laser, Glenn Laser, Richard Perez and Rudolph Perry, all of Mansfield; Herbert Turner, Willard Zucker, Michael Eckstein and Harry Jackson, jr., of Galion and Thomas Bowdle of Ashland. The Star award was made by Mark Wolcott, a member of the court of honor.

The Life scout rank was conferred on Richard Sowash and Richard Weaver, both of Mansfield and Donald Lett of Ashland. J. Leo Hartmann, chairman of the court, presented the Life badges.

Four Eagle scouts were presented with Eagle palms for earning additional merit badges over the 21 required before a scout can become an Eagle scout. Robert Sutter of Shelby was presented with the silver palm for earning 15 merit badges over the required 21. Carl Jordan and Gilbert Dodds both of Ashland, were given gold palms for having 10 badges and Thomas Sutter of Shelby received the bronze palm for five additional merit badges.

Veteran service awards were given to two Mansfield scouters for service rendered in the scout movement. J. R. Turner, scoutmaster of troop No. 6, received the 10-year veteran award, and Grant Clark, first mate in the Sea Scout troop, received a five-year award. Veteran awards were made by Floyd Dent, area scout executive.

Members of the court were assisted in the ceremonies by four Eagle scouts, David Ott, Clifford Hartnett, Ralph Arlin and Wilton Morkel. The court was attended by about 100 parents and friends.

Scout Leaders Meet.

Scouters from the Johnny Appleseed Area will meet Saturday at scout headquarters in the Elks' building for the 18th annual meeting of the area council, and the annual scouters conference.

The business meeting of the council is scheduled for 4 p. m., and will be in charge of L. A. Ott, area president. The annual election of officers will be held at this meeting.

Scouters and troop committeemen will hold their meeting at 2:30 p. m. Phil Smith, Mansfield district committeeman, will lead the scouters conference and D. D. Montoya, area field executive, will preside at the troop committeemen meeting.

At 6:30 p. m. the annual scouters banquet will be held in the dining room at the Elks' home. Guest speaker at the banquet will be O. B. Evenson, deupty regional executive of Cincinnati. The annual awarding of the Silver Beaver badge, presented for outstanding service in the council will be made during the banquet. Eighteen other officials will be given service awards. The various awards will be presented by J. Leo Hartmann, and Council President Ott.

The invocation will be given by Rev. Paul Hollingshead, pastor of the Central Methodist church, and music will be furnished by the Boy Scout orchestra under the direction of Eugene Smart. Scout Jackie Spicer of troop No. 5 will present a "Hillbilly" act. George H. Smith, chairman of the banquet, will act as toastmaster.

TAKES CIGARETS

Police Hunt Man Who Carried Off Four Cartons From Store.

Police today were searching for a man with a red mustache who walked off with four cartons of cigarets from the Kroger Grocery and Baking company store, 242 North Mulberry street, yesterday.

LeRoy Marshall, store clerk, told police that a man about 26 years old came in and handed him a large order to fill. While he was getting the groceries Marshall said the would-be customer stated that he was going outside to move his car. When he did not return, the clerk reported he found four cartons of cigarets which he had placed on the counter missing.

LO, LOWLY CABBAGE DOTH COME IN MANY VARIETIES THESE DAYS!

While the housewife is cudgeling her brain for "something different"—and it is a problem to vary menus this time of year—she may well consider the lowly cabbage which comes in almost as many varieties as Jello has flavors.

A trip through the markets this week showed that there is old cabbage (better for boiling), green cabbage and celery cabbage. And in the same category so far as flavor is concerned there is Brussels sprouts—baby cabbages.

There are spring-like touches to the markets however, in green onions, cucumbers and breakfast radishes. Winter strawberries and pineapples and fresh honey dew mellons offer variety. Fresh rhubarb suggests pie and sauce.

In the higher price brackets one may find green peas, lima beans, artichokes, asparagus, tomatoes, green and wax beans, while the lower bracket offers spinach, kale, broccoli, mustard greens, endive, turnips, egg plant and lettuce.

Apples still lead the market in fruit sales, with grapefruit and oranges a close second. Bananas are good quality now and not too expensive.

In the luxury line of fruits there is Argentine and California grapes, pears, Persian limes, nectarines and kumquats.

bridge construction and maintenance. The funds come from motor vehicle license receipts and the gasoline tax.

Speaking briefly at yesterday's session, J. R. Thomas, Hayesville, president of the Ohio trustees and clerks association, urged the use of more liquid fuel taxes for roads rather than for other purposes, as a solution to the rural highway problem.

Ralph C. Lutz, county representative to the general assembly, outlined new legislation as it affects the rural districts.

Other speakers were C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the county commissioners; Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott.

The Trustees and Clerks association elected George Harris, Plymouth township trustee, president for 1938 to succeed C. G. Tugend of Worthington township who retired as a trustee the first of the year.

P. G. Krichbaum, Butler township clerk, was elected vice president, and Hilas Jenney, Bloominggrove township clerk, was re-elected secreta.

CLIMBS TO 90

One New Smallpox Case Listed; 5 Quarantines Lifted.

With one new case of smallpox reported today by health authorities, the total number afflicted with the disease since the first outbreak three weeks ago mounted to 90.

Meanwhile Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county public health commissioner, said that five more had been released from quarantine. They were Wilbur Ward, 14 Harmon avenue; Corinne Moats, 7 Superior street; Gladys Dischoff, 176 South Diamond street; Woneta Bellevue, 1062 Park avenue west and the family of Henry Stutz, Madison township, where two children had been confined.

The new case was that of Caroline Minard, 4, of Sunset boulevard, in Madison township.

BIERLY OFFERS 2 SUGGESTIONS TO G.O.P. HEADS

County Chairman Says Party Should Urge Capital-Labor Accord, Balanced Budget.

The Republican party in the nation should insist on a balanced budget and espouse the idea of a partnership between labor and capital for the prosperity of the country.

Those two suggestions were contained in a letter from Glen L. Bierly, chairman of the Richland county Republican executive committee to John B. Hollister, Cincinnati, an Ohio member of the Republican program committee, which will meet with its chairman, Dr. Glenn Frank, in Chicago, to recommend a program for the party.

Hollister had written to Bierly asking his views on what ideas should be included in any program that may be drafted at the Chicago session.

"A clarion call should be 'balance the budget,'" Bierly said in his letter. "The declaration of the committee should be positive and constructive, although it may be difficult to enunciate present day needs without pointing out the fallacies of programs now in operation, especially the fiscal aspects of the Social Security act and an unbalanced budget arising from rampant and uncontrolled expenditures."

Cites Folly of War.

On the nation's foreign policy, Bierly said that as a veteran of the World war, with the 37th Ohio division, he had a "deep-seated aversion to the horror, cruelty and folly of war."

"While I do not subscribe to the Ludlow idea of a referendum," Bierly wrote, "I do believe that the profit must be taken out of war. In this connection the merits of the Universal Service act, as sponsored by the American Legion, merit consideration."

Bierly wrote that he believed the party needed a "rallying point—a clear and concise statement of basic principles designed to promote cohesion—a declaration which will re-establish our party as such and life it above purely local and individual viewpoints."

"I hope I am not unfair in voicing the opinion that perhaps our present difficulties are deserved," Bierly added, "and are the result of having given undue emphasis to the mere mechanics of politics and in so doing have . . . overlooked sound political principles."

Turning to the question of capital and labor, Bierly wrote, "we need to understand that capital in the broad sense is created by forbearance and self-denial and that the man who struggles to buy his home as a safeguard for his family is an owner of capital and that his capital is being dissipated through profligate public expenditures."

"We should emphasize and encourage an extension of the partnership idea between labor and capital."

preserve the Austro-German peace truce.

Austria's right of freedom, said Schuschnigg, was guaranteed by Hitler himself in the Berchtesgaden "truce" agreement. Schuschnigg capped his "declaration of independence" with a ringing phrase: "Heil Austria." And he added:

"The will to freedom of the Austrian people and the inner worth of our country stand like a wall. Nothing is changed in this respect. We trust in God, who will not abandon our country, because we are resolved there is no doubt regarding our victory."

Schuschnigg had not even finished his address before Nazis all over the country, angered by his tone, and by his announcement against further "Nazification" of Austria, began their noisy demonstrations.

Fourth Blaze for Famed "Village" Ballroom

Firemen are pictured hurling tons of water on historic Webster Hall, in New York City, famed as a former meeting place of Greenwich Village's leading Bohemians. This was fourth blaze in last 36 years for the ballroom. Two caretakers died.

Resents Doctors' Fists

Billy Seaman is pictured with his wife, the former Phyllis Haver, of the silent screen, in New York City. It was after just such a party that Seaman and his wife, leaving a hotel where young internes and doctors were holding a dance, say four of the doctors set upon Seaman, attempted to use his car, beat him up. Police stopped brawl, arrested the medicos.

A Truck Stalled on the Tracks—Driver Killed

Passengers who escaped stand beside wreck of the crack St. Louis-to-Chicago Limited train derailed at Worth, near Chicago. Entire Hal Kemp orchestra were among injured. Driver of truck which stalled on the tracks was killed.

Roosevelt Send-Off for Kennedy

James Roosevelt is pictured having a last-minute chat with Joseph P. Kennedy (right), new United States Ambassador to England, just before the United States liner Manhattan sailed from New York. That hand Kennedy is holding up is for the press photographers. Dozens of them were aboard the ship to snap Kennedy, former chief of the Maritime Commission, as he sailed for his new post.

Monkey Business in Boston

These two rhesus monkeys have been making a monkey out of the constituted authorities in Boston. Six months ago they escaped with eighteen others from the freighter Calcutta, which had tied up at a Boston pier. The others were captured. These two are still at large, have grown heavy coats of fur, and live on the refuse around the pier, hugging steam pipes to keep warm. No amount of coaxing will bring them near enough for capture. (Central Press)

Goes to Work

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, United States Minister to Poland, is pictured aboard the United States liner Manhattan as he sailed from New York to Europe. Biddle is hurrying back to his post as a result of the present crisis in Central Europe.

No Place for the Puck

Looks like everybody but the puck got into the net in this scramble between the Canadiens and Rangers in New York City. It all happened when Dillon, Rangers, fell on Goalie Cude. Smith (No. 14) got his leg caught, and two other Canadiens joined the pile-up. Rangers lost, 2-1.

Faces Divorce

Lydia Ladd (above), whose husband, Duncan Ladd, was acquitted by a New Haven, Conn., court in the murder of her alleged "love master" now faces divorce.

Reported Awaiting Stork

Claudette Colbert (above), screen star wife of Joel Pressman, is reported awaiting a visit from the long-legged bird. Hollywood believes fact that Claudette won't return to the studios until Summer adds a note of credence to the rumor.

Bomber on Stand

Lester F. Barlow, Stanford, Conn., inventor and first man to use bombs in aerial warfare, is pictured on the stand before the House Naval Affairs Committee in Washington. He urged drastic revision of the naval expansion program, and said he had developed an aerial torpedo with which "we can hit Chicago fifty times a minute from Washington."

Follow Britain's Lead

As Adolf Hitler Defied the World

The eyes and ears of the world were on Germany when Adolf Hitler, Fuehrer of the Third Reich, stood before the puppet Reichstag on the heels of the long-sought "anschluss" with Austria, and declaimed that nothing will stop his nation in its race for power and glory. He is shown below, at the height of his speech. Above him, on the rostrum of the President of the Reichstag, is Hermann Goering, No. 1 Nazi and Hitler's right hand man. (Central Press)

Nation's Lawyers Choose Pecora

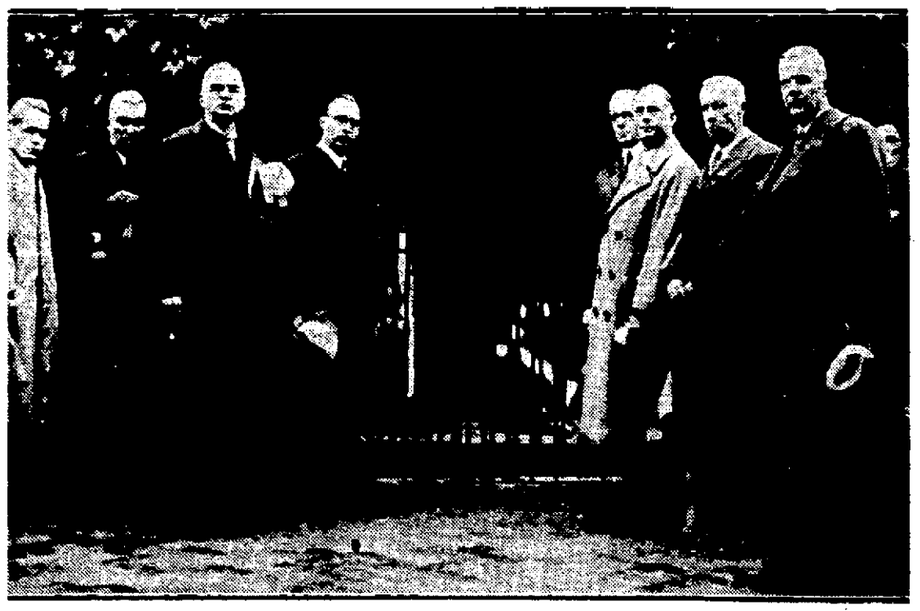
American Masons Pay Honor to Washington



Delegates from the George Washington Masonic Memorial Association are pictured at the tomb of George Washington, in Mount Vernon, as they placed wreaths there on his birthday. Washington was a member of the order. Left to right in the picture are T. W. Pennington, Kentucky; John T. Rice, Texas; Arthur E. Delmhorst, New York; W. M. Robertson, Nebraska, and E. W. Rising, Idaho.

Measuring a Man's Worth

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 27 is Mark 5:1-17, the Golden Text being Matthew 12:12, "How much then is a man of more value than a sheep?")

THE PROBLEM of "demon possession" is one of the most perplexing of all New Testament problems. Was it Satan's means of incarnating himself during the days our Lord dwelt among men in the flesh, that he might use the same method against God that God was using against him in the incarnation of the word made flesh? The demons of this lesson manifest an insistent desire for some material instrumentality in which to embody themselves, if not a human body then that of swine.

A Demoniac Healed.

After stilling the tempest on the sea en route to the scene of this lesson our Lord was confronted with a tempest-tossed soul of "a man of an unclean spirit, who had his dwelling in the tombs: and no man could any more bind him, not with a chain; because that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been rent asunder by him and the fetters broken in pieces: and no man had strength to tame him. And always, night and day, in the tombs and in the mountains, he was crying out, and cutting himself with stones. And when he saw Jesus from afar, he ran and worshiped him; and crying out with a loud voice, he saith, What have I to do with thee, Jesus thou Son of the Most High God? I adjure thee by God, torment me not." To which Jesus replied with the same authority he had just showed over wind and waves, "Come forth thou unclean spirit out of the man." When in the realm of physical forces "he rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still," we read that "the wind ceased, and there was a great calm." Likewise, he mastered the tempestuous and destructive spiritual forces in this man's turbulent soul and the peace and calm that followed are pictured thus, "They come to Jesus, and behold him that was possessed with demons, sitting, clothed, and in his right mind, at the feet of Jesus." Authority in the realm of disease, of the deep and of demons, was his to exercise for the glory of God and the good of afflicted humanity.

Jesus' Method.

All men can do with these forces of evil is to restrain and repress with chains, fetters, prisons and the like. Jesus' method is to address himself to the eradication of the indwelling evil, to cast it out and cleanse from within. Thus "he restoreth my soul" and "delivers us from evil." His power, being spiritual and divine, alone is adequate for the eradication of any and all evils that in any wise possess and distress mankind.

Pigs Versus Men.

But in the process of cleansing the man a herd of swine is lost. And their owners came to protest to Jesus for their loss. "They behold him that was possessed with demons, sitting clothed and in his right mind," but this means nothing to them. Their interests are confined to hogs, not men. To them property rights were paramount, human rights meant nothing. Accordingly, "They began to beseech Jesus to depart from their borders," because he valued a man above swine or even all the wealth of the world.

Jap Cabinet, Parliament In Deadlock Over War Bill

SPLIT THROWS NIPPON INTO GRAVE CRISIS

'Fascist' Legislation Draws Protest; Formosa Attack Causes New Concern.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—The Japanese cabinet and parliament were in a bitter deadlock today over a dictatorial war control bill.

A situation amounting to a cabinet crisis crystallized between the diet (parliament) and the cabinet over the measure which lower house members objected was copied after Fascist laws of Germany and Italy.

The government was determined to obtain approval for the general mobilization bill, which would impose wartime regulation of Japanese business, finance, property and private lives.

Because of the crisis, Japan approached the anniversary of the army uprising of Feb. 26, 1936, with grave apprehension.

Fear More Raids.

Adding to the concern was the Chinese bombardment Wednesday of the Japanese island of Formosa, and fears that one of the main islands of this thickly-settled empire might be subjected to air raids.

Damage in the raid listed by Chinese included: Destruction of a considerable number of planes at the Taihoku military airport, serious damage to the Shinchiku civil airdrome which forced temporary suspension of the new Japanese south seas air route, and partial destruction of Formosa's biggest powerhouse.

It was indicated here that Japanese would conduct a mass raid on Hankow, temporary Chinese capital, in reprisal for the Formosa bombardment.

"The situation is very grave," said war minister, General Gen Sugiyama, speaking on the general mobolization bill. "The fate of the nation hangs on this occasion."

Before parliament resumed today after the turbulent session which ended in recess yesterday, Admiral Nobumasa Suyetsuga, minister of home affairs, summoned high war officers to his official residence.

During the night, both the government and parliament leaders held extended conferences.

LEARN MAN HELD HERE'S FUGITIVE

Shoplifter Escaped From Indiana Institution Nov. 13.

A man serving out a 30-day jail sentence and a fine of $50 and costs in county jail is a fugitive from the Indiana state prison farm at Greencastle, Ind., Police Chief Meade K. Bates learned today from the federal bureau of investigation at Washington.

The identification was established following a routine finger-print report filed with the bureau by Mansfield police after the man's arrest.

The fugitive is Roy Patterson, 44, was sentenced as a shoplifter. He will be released to Indiana authorities following his release on April 23, Chief Bates said. Patterson escaped from the Indiana institution Nov. 13.

The nickname of Tygers as applied to Mansfield High school athletic teams is now a definite trademark. While newspapers in Mansfield and elsewhere have referred to the teams as Tygers for many years (although they don't know why the "y" was substituted for the "i" or who was responsible) the high school weekly spelled the monicker with an "i" until this week. Sports Editor Dave Shelley of the Hyphonerian, school publication, with the OK of H. D. Bishop, assistant principal, announced that hte school paper, too, would use the "y" in the spelling.

She didn't miss it until almost home, and then turned around to go back. A youngster on a bicycle flagged them down. He had seen her drop the pocketbook, and had pedalled breathlessly after the car, keeping it in sight but unable to catch up with it. He recognized the machine coming back and gave Mrs. Tawse her pocketbook, intact.

NEW TAGS HERE

12,300 Sets Arrive at Auto Club, Go on Sale Tuesday.

Mansfield's allotment of 1938 auto license tags arrived today from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and will go on sale Tuesday, Deputy Registrar Frank Beverstock said today. The allotment includes 12,298 sets of plates which is expected to cover the sale of the first quarter of the year.

State Registrar Frank West estimates 2,000,000 tags would be sold in the state this year.

The 1938 licenses are black on white, and in addition to the letters and figures, they bear an inscription commemorating the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Northwest Territory, of which Ohio was a part, and which will be celebrated this year.

The new plates may be used on vehicles March 10. The expiration date for the 1937 tags is March 31.

SEE UNITY AT OHIO CIO PARTY

Spokesman Expect Convention To Map Political Program, Condemn Davey.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The first state convention of the Committee for Industrial Organization in Ohio, opening here Saturday, will develop a closely knit state body of all local affiliates united in support of CIO political and social demands, spokesmen said today.

A pre-convention conference of 50 leaders was held in advance to prepare committee reports, delegates' assignments and resolutions, and to discuss terms of the state CIO constitution to be promulgated during the two-day meeting.

Arrangements were made to accommodate 1,000 delegates. One CIO executive said the delegates would represent a total state membership of 250,000 workers, but others said there was no accurate estimate available of the CIO numerical strength in Ohio.

The convention was expected to draft for the first time since the organization's founding a broad political and legislative platform for Ohio units.

A spokesman indicated that political issues may attract the greatest attention by the convention. He explained that one resolution to be proposed would condemn Gov. Martin L. Davey "in very positive terms."

She was painfully burned about the face, arms and chest. Her condition is not considered serious.

EXAMS FOR POLICE, FIRE AND SCHOOL JOBS SET FOR MAR. 4-5

Competitive examinations for the purpose of preparing a new eligibility list for policemen, firemen, and janitors, will be held March 4-5 at the city building, it was announced today by Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the civil service commission.

Application will be taken for the examinations at the office of the commission in the city building tomorrow from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The exam for janitors and assistant janitors for the city building and the public schools has been set for 7 p. m. March 4. The applicants age requirement is from 22 to 50 years of age. Applicants for janitor must have either a fireman's or engineer's license.

Examinations for policemen and firemen will be held the following evening, March 5 at 7 p. m. in the city building. The age requirement for patrolmen is from 25 to 40 years of age with a minimum height of five nine inches. Applicants for firemen must be from 22 to 35 years of age and not less than five feet six inches tall.

Biddle said that the commission will select the three highest grades in each bracket to make up the eligibility list.

Confusion, Split Among Labor Groups Snags In Path of Revised Measure.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — National wage-hour legislation, it appeared today, may be submerged in a welter of confusion and opposition, coupled with a split among labor groups and sectional differences.

As the house labor committee convened to determine a policy to be pursued in an effort to salvage the legislation, its leading sponsors were pessimistic.

The blast of the American Federation of Labor at federal bureaucracies removed all hope of an agreement being reached between the A. F. of L. and the administration.

Makes 40-40 Demand.

While President Roosevelt has insisted that discretionary authority must be vested in a board, the federation demands that congress itself fix a national minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, and a maximum 40 hour work week for interstate business.

A possibility arose that a movement for a national 40-hour week—without minimum wages—might emerge from the current controversy.

The A. F. of L.'s insistence that action be taken because of the business recession, recalled to members its drive in 1933 for a national 30-hour week, which culminated in NRA.

In submitting its bill to the labor committee, President William Green of the A. F. of L. denounced the National Bituminous Coal commission as well as renewing his attack on the National Labor Relations board.

Expressing labor's fear of bureaucratic rule, he said:

"And let it never be forgotten that labor, as well as capital, is ever on the alert to detect and guard against a fettering of freedom, even when friendly hands offer a kindly bondage."

The federation bared its intention to fight the National Labor board, as now constituted.

STROKE FATAL

Jefferson Smith Was Crawford Official 40 Years.

BUCYRUS — Jefferson I. Smith, 74, a Crawford county official for 40 years, died Thursday night at his home following a paralytic stroke suffered six days ago.

Born in Lykens township, Mr. Smith came to Bucyrus 35 years ago from New Washington. He became deputy county auditor in 1897, and in 1901 was elected county auditor, serving two terms. Since that time he has worked as a deputy in the county treasurer's office, as an assistant in the county commissioner's office as a school examiner, and at the time of his death he was employed as a clerk in the commissioners' office. He also served for a number of years as a member of the county fair board.

He was a member of the K. of P. lodge, and of the First Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife Linnie, a son, Russell B. Smith, superintendent of the Crestline schools, and three brothers, Fred T. of Marion, Henry W. of Brokensword, and Lank M. of Youngstown.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home with Rev. J. H. Bugler, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. He will be assisted by Rev. J. W. Dowds of Brokensword, and Rev. L. A. Pruitt of the Crestline Methodist church. Burial will be made in the Bucyrus Mausoleum.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Reorganization No. 2

IN ITS much rewritten form the departmental reorganization bill, as it will come up in the senate, is more notable for the thing that has been taken out than the things that have been left in. True, it proposes some radical, and seemingly dangerous, changes, and it gives the president a great deal more temporary power in some directions.

But it specifically denies him the power he wanted more than he wanted any other—the power he asserted was his in 1933, when he removed the late William Humphrey as federal trade commissioner; the power the supreme court unanimously and emphatically told him in 1934 he did not have—to wit, the power to control the great independent quasi-judicial boards and commissions, such as the interstate commerce, federal trade, federal reserve, federal power, federal communications, national labor relations, securities and exchange.

NO MATTER what else he obtains, the fact that the administration forces in charge of this bill have been forced specifically to exempt these boards and commission, after having directly sought to subject them to executive control, is an extraordinary defeat for the president, a signal victory for those who held the measure was revolutionary and un-American—in particular, a victory for Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, who, for more than a year fought against the proposal, who has been the most persistent and consistent figure who stood in the path of the president, refused to be pushed aside, blanketed or bullied, who by constant hammering, in season and out, compelled an analysis, awoke the independent boards to their danger, thwarted that original White House design and impregnated Mr. Roosevelt with such feeling that he cannot hear his name today without exhibiting temper.

IN THE judgment of many control over over the independent boards was the heart of the original plan. Certainly it was its most startling feature. It was that feature, together with the fact that they were launched almost simultaneously, which justified linking the reorganization scheme with the court-packing proposal, regarding them as companion pieces. It was that feature which led Gen. Hugh Johnson to say of the plan that "the effect would be to change the very essence of our form of government, to concentrate a vast collection of power, not in a federal government, but in a federal governor. It is sharply away from checks and balances and sharply toward one-man government. It is silently but powerfully revolutionary."

EVEN WITH the independent boards out, there are in the bill several deeply controversial and, in the minds of the opposition, objectionable provisions. The chief of these is the proposal to abolish the office of comptroller general and the general accounting office, substituting an auditor general to be named by the president and a general accounting department. There will be a stiff fight over this. The administration defense is that the comptroller general not only does not provide an adequate audit, but he heckles and handicaps officials in their duty, that his office is outmoded and useless. The other side charges that the comptroller general is the real watch dog of the treasury, that he is the only check congress has on administration expenditures, that the bill proposes to remove this check, substitute a post audit for a pre audit, which is locking the stable door after the horse has gone; that the auditor general could only audit on information furnished from executive sources.

* * *

THE other feature over which there will be battle is the one abolishing the present bipartisan civil service commission and substituting a single commissioner, to be named by the president. The administration insists that this is the way to extend the merit system; the opposition charges that it puts the civil service under political control and promotes the spoils system. It will also oppose the "power of the president" section on the ground that for three years it would require an act of congress to nullify any executive order, and that would be subject to the veto. However, the bill as it is now is by no means as offensive as it was originally. The fact that it is not proposed to save any money at all still remains its most unique feature.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Actors lead doubly hazardous lives. They must face the same risks as other men in every-day life—mainly traffic perils—and besides must be prepared for whatever dangers and indignities the scenarists may plot for them.

There was an air of expectancy on Michael Curtiz's set the other day. Errol Flynn seemed more debonair than usual, Rosalind Russell sat by chipperly, and Director Curtiz had a gleam in his eyes. The set workers had the appearance of waiting for something rather interesting to happen.

"Miss DeHavilland will sock Mr. Knowles at 4:30," gleefully a worker announced.

Mr. Knowles was not gleeful about it, nor presumably was Miss DeHavilland. The gentlest of creatures, Olivia was off by herself somewhere, probably working up courage for the "sock."

Mr. Knowles, still rubbing his chin, was frank in his lack of anticipation. He recalled distinctly, he said, the sock administered in a previous film by Miss Beverly Roberts. Of course, he admitted, Miss DeHavilland is frailer than Miss Roberts.

But these outbreaks of feminine violence always seemed to catch him at his worst. Today, for instance, he was choked up with a cold. Miss Roberts' punch had landed on a jaw already agonized by toothache. Mr. Knowles, although prepared to be stoic about it, was not too happy.

Out of sympathy—and the fact that 4:30 was nearly two hours away—we skipped viewing the DeHavilland-Knowles bout. On another set we found further evidence that man gets little consideration from the movie-plotters.

Rosemary Lane, fetching and pretty, was preparing to pour. Even as she chatted brightly, her stand-in stood poised on a high stool, holding a pitcher of water through a transom. For the real scene in "Gold Diggers In Paris" Miss Lane would take her place there and pour the contents on the neatly dressed person of Rudy Vallee below.

Interested by now in the reactions of abused males, we approached Rudy.

"Understand Miss Lane is pouring this afternoon," we suggested brightly.

"She didn't invite me," said Rudy absently.

"Ah, but she did! You're the guest of honor," we informed him.

"Oh, that!" Rudy grinned. "I thought—you know—in the vernacular—"

The actual pouring, however, was hours away. (That's the way things go in Hollywood.) On the neighboring "Cowboy From Brooklyn" set we met flame-haired Ann Sheridan, just leaving.

"If you want to feel a real bump," she boasted, "go feel O'Brien's head. I just crocked him with a vase."

Pat was showing off his bump. It was a real one. Breakaway vases—the kind made especially for these scenes to shatter easily and painlessly—are built with fairly solid bases. Ann's crocking had caught Pat's head with the base of the vase.

After that, it seemed a good day to avoid the gentler sex.

FEBRUARY 25—Actual work on boat construction has begun. Two long 6x12 timbers have been spliced for the construction of the larger boat and two white poplars, four feet in diameter, have been felled to be hewn into dugouts. We are also making bark shingles for the log cabin. The work being done with an instrument known as a "foe." Our work in the woods has been relieved from too much monotony with basketball games with local teams as opponents. The movie crew was again with us taking pictures. To date 30 planks have been whipsawed and squared.

Talk Over Marriage With Parents

By VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Miss Lee: I shall be 18 years old soon, and I love a boy who will be 20 in June. He lives in a town about 15 miles from me.

"Although we are both young, we know we love each other. For one year we have gone together, and we get along perfectly. Lately, however, I have had chances to doubt his love. He does some very exasperating things. Two weeks ago he said he was going out of town for a while, but a week later I found out from some of my friends that he did not go. This was rather embarrassing for me. He said he didn't go because his mother needed him at home.

"I know for a fact that he did not go out with other girls, for his own father told me so. Still, I think I was right in becoming angry.

"He is going to get a good position in a few weeks. Last night he asked me to marry him. He said he could never love anybody but me, and he can hardly wait until I belong to him.

"Oh, Miss Lee, shall I say yes?

"That is my problem. We got along so well for such a long time that I wonder if I shouldn't just pass up these few faults of his.

"Thank you for your help, which will be most welcome, and I assure you that I shall need your advice. TUMS."

You wouldn't expect a boy to be absolutely perfect, would you, Tums, dear? Any man you marry would have a few faults, and you probably won't mind them—in fact, you wouldn't have him without them. So that is no objection.

It was odd, however, that your boy friend didn't tell you himself that he didn't go away after all. A secretive nature that won't confide in such a close friend, is not very desirable.

But the thing that worries me and makes me hesitate to advise you to accept your sweetheart's offer is that you both are so very young. Of course there are marriages that are as perfect as can be between those who have married very young, but you are apt to change, and so is the boy. It always seems risky to me when young people under legal age marry. "Do they know what they are doing? I always wonder.

What do your respective parents say? I cannot help thinking it would be better to wait until the boy is 21 and you will be 19—and then if you both are of the same mind, marry. You would be more sure of yourselves. Of course, you can become engaged and wait a while to wed. Better talk it over with your parents—his and yours—and get their reactions.

Dear Mrs. Post: I sent a wedding present to a friend recently, together with another friend, and she has received a thank you note in which she was asked to thank me also. I feel a little hurt because I shared the expense of this gift and what's more, went out and bought it myself, and I feel that thank you by proxy was very impolite to me.

Answer: In this case I think the bride ought to have written two notes. It is true that where a club or group of office associates send a present to one of its members, it is necessary to write only one note, wording the message to include every one. But this applies only to a situation where too many people contribute to the gift to make the writing of individual notes reasonable.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 26.

A difficult day, with many conflicting developments, is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. There is a sign of profitable intrigue or collusion, or a strategic matter in connection with rings, mergers, secret, political or diplomatic bodies. But there also is a hint of enmity, jealousy and rash moves, probably affecting the private life.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in difficult and adverse situations unless they control their turbulent, rash and impetuous proclivities. These may precipitate quarrels, enmity or jealousy. A profitable association might be made through diplomacy, strategy or intrigue. Be guided by prudence and the advice of good friends.

A child born on this day may be lively, tempestuous, impulsive and inspire enmity, jealousy and defeat, although it may have a very likeable and friendly nature. Early training and discipline may set its feet in the right direction.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS MR. MILNER, manager of the Hotel Lansfield, suavely explained that he could not assign rooms upon our floor to Miss Whitlock because of Philip Veritzen's lease of our entire floor. I had the queerest sensation of emptiness at the pit of my stomach, a sensation which comes to me only when I am thoroughly frightened at the imminence of some danger.

There was no possible reason for such a feeling. Mr. Milner's explanation that Mr. Veritzen had wished to reserve the entire floor, so that only persons for whom he could vouch personally would have rooms near us, was entirely plausible, and entirely in keeping with Philip Veritzen's known penchant for doing things in the grand style.

Planning for Queen.

In all probability, I thought, the great producer might be planning to have his royal refugees, Queen Olga and Princess Olina, come to the hotel instead of to the apartment he had prepared for them, and in which he had compelled Noel to keep lonely vigil before the rescue of the imperiled queen and her daughter. He, of course, was still in ignorance of my offer of sanctuary to Olga, and her decision to come to the farm. But I knew that his anger, when he learned of the queenly decision to be dependent upon his bounty no longer, would be deep and lasting.

I knew something else, also, that his word, once given, was never broken, and, with a realization that I must get hold of him before he learned of Olga's plan, I rose abruptly.

"There is only one thing to do, then," I said, "and that is to obtain Mr. Veritzen's permission for Miss Whitlock to occupy one of the suites. Otherwise, we must take her in here with us, and as both Mrs. Veritzen and I have arduous and special work to do for the next few weeks, that would be an inconvenient arrangement for all three of us. If you can arrange it, I will get Mr. Veritzen on the long distance wire at once."

Madge Rejects Offer.

"I can save you that trouble," Mr. Milner said, his suavity undisturbed, and I realized that he would not take my word as authority for giving the room to Miss Whitlock unless he had Mr. Virtizen's personal authority for the action.

"I can talk to him, if you like," he went on.

"I'm sorry, but I don't like," I said, smiling to take the rudeness from the words. "I wish to speak to him first myself. I should like to call him from here, and I should like you to remain here while I talk. Then, when I have finished you probably will wish to speak to Mr. Viritzen personally and verify what he has told me."

"It really isn't necessary," he said grandiloquently, having carried his point, "but I suppose to make the record official, I might as well remain. Have you the number? The telephone operator has it, if you haven't."

Madge Telephones.

"I have both the numbers of the hotel and the hospital," I told him, moving toward the telephone. "In all probability he will be at one place or the other."

I sat down before the telephone forestalling his gesture of getting the number, and taking down the receiver, gave meticulous instructions to the operator about getting Mr. Veritzen on the wire from either the hotel or the hospital. Then I sat back and waited, conscious that Mary was tense with the same feeling of unreasoning panic that I had experienced, that Miss Whitlock was calmly observant, ready at any instant for any service that would be asked of her, and that the hotel manager was keenly watchful, lest in Dicky's parlance, I "put something over on him."

And then, after a little delay, there came to my ears not Philip Veritzen's voice, but that of Noel, excited, fearful.

"What is it? Has anything happened to Mary?" he was demanding.

Today's Recipes.

BAKED SALMON SANDWICH—Six slices white bread, one-fourth cup minced onion, three tablespoons butter or margerine, three tablespoons flour, one and one-fourth cups bottled milk or three-fourth cups evaporated milk and three-fourths cup water, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one No. 2 can (two and one-half cups) salmon, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-fourth cup grated American cheese. Arrange bread slices in a shallow casserole. Cook the onion until tender in the butter, cooking in the top of a double boiler over direct heat. Add the flour, and blend. Add the milk, salt, and pepper, and cook over hot water until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add the salmon, from which the skin and bones have been removed, add the lemon juice. Pour over the bread slices and top with the cheese. Bake in a moderately hot oven of 375 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes. Serves six.

CUSTARD PIE — Three eggs, one pint milk, one-half cup sugar, flavor to taste. Bake slowly in one crust. Start pie baking in a hot oven, about 400 degrees, and after 10 minutes turn it down to 350 to finish. The hot oven bakes the crust and prevents the custard sinking in and making the crust soggy. A custard should bake in about 40 minutes. However, when it seems done, insert a silver knife into the custard. If it comes out clean the pie is done.

MAGIC CHOCOLATE BARS—Two squares unsweetened chocolate, one and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk, few grains salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-fourth cup water, one recipe of your favorite layer cake. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water five minutes or until mixture thickens. Remove from fire, add salt, vanilla and water. Prepare batter for your favorite layer cake and spread one-half inch thick in buttered oblong pan. Place spoonfuls of chocolate frosting on unbaked cake mixture and spread evenly. Bake in slow oven (325 F.) 30 minutes. When cool, cut in oblong bars.

Relax If You Would Remain Youthful

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

"American and Canadian women are the youngest looking women in the world." This gratifying statement was made by a famous French designer on a recent visit. Certainly foreigners marvel, and, according to their lights, claim it is caused by everything from the climate to modern plumbing. They may argue about the reasons, but there are as many secrets to the art of staying young as there are individuals.

We don't mind getting older, but we have a genuine feeling for keeping our youthful enthusiasms and looking our best. Which is really just another and swell way to get old gracefully.

Relax Daily.

This department has hit upon a tip that will do wonders to keep us looking and feeling young. You may have your own private formula, but this one will not interfere with it and will work for all types and ages. It's so obvious that most people have forgotten all about it. But here it is: Relax!

Animals have never forgotten the art of relaxing. The dumbest puppy and the most forlorn alley cat are one up on us there. When they are not busy about their playing and hunting they are usually doing one of two things, eating or napping. They settle down in a minute, with a long sigh they go limp as a rag doll. They are conserving their energies. It is an easy enough procedure once you've made your mind up.

Plan to take at least half an hour out of each day. Half an hour for yourself alone, with no interferences from children, servants, business appointments and social engagements. Even the busiest person deserves that small amount of time out of twenty-four hours for herself. Give yourself that helpful few minutes before you are exhausted, not after. It is almost miraculous how picked-up you will feel.

First get into a comfortable negligee or gown. Cleanse your face, wash out your eyes with a boric acid solution, and give your hair a five-minute brushing. Then if you want to put a little cream on your face, do so. Pour some witch hazel or cold tea in a little saucer, and drop in an ice cube. Take two hunks of absorbent cotton, large enough to go over the eyes and saturate them in the cold solution. Now you are ready to start your thirty winks.

Lie down and take a good stretch for yourself. Raise your legs and let them flop down. Then raise your arms and let them drop inertly. Lift your head up and look at your toes. This relieves all that tension at the back of the neck. Then relax, and if you can sleep, so much the better.

After your rest period take your bath or shower, and you'll be amazed at what a world conquering mood you'll be in. And it will take years off your age. Birds do it, babies do it, why not women?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE WEAKER PREVAILS

When two partners are trying to sign off on a misfit hand, the one who sounds as if he has the weaker holding should usually be allowed to prevail. The chances are he lacks side suit honor strength which would make his cards a good dummy for his mate, whereas he probably has fair length at his own suit and can use his partner's stronger cards for a helpful dummy. The trouble about all this, however, is that sometimes a player thinks a certain bid by him will sound weak to the one across the table, but does not really seem so at all. Then usually comes disaster.

	♠ Q J 10 6 4 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ Q 6 5 ♣ A 3
♠ 8 7 5 ♥ K Q J 10 3 ♦ A 10 ♣ Q 6 5	N. W. E. S.	♠ A K 3 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ J 9 4 3 ♣ 7 4 2
	♠ 9 ♥ A 9 7 ♦ K 8 7 3 ♣ K J 10 9 3

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

This deal arose in a rubber game and after two passed, South opened the bidding with 1-Club. West overcalled with 1-Heart and North put in a bid of 1-Spade. South then rebid his clubs and North his spades.

South figured that he had signed off at 2-Clubs and that a continuation of the bidding by North, who had bid over West's overcall, indicated that he wished the bidding to go on. South therefore put in a bid of 3-Diamonds. North responded to this with 3-Spades, which East doubled, and South rescued with 3-No Trumps, which West doubled. The contract was set three tricks.

North's argument was that he had passed a fairly good hand, and as his partner was able to bid, the hand was even more valuable and he should have been allowed to play it at 2-Spades. South was equally sure that his bidding of 2-Clubs was a signal that he wanted to sign off and blamed North for bidding the spades so often. After a heated argument neither would confess that he was in the wrong.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 10 6 ♥ 6 5 3 2 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ 7 5 4 3
♠ A 8 5 4 ♥ A Q 4 ♦ A K Q ♣ A Q 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ 3 2 ♥ J 8 7 ♦ J 10 5 3 ♣ J 10 9 6
	♠ K Q J 9 7 ♥ K 10 9 ♦ 9 7 2 ♣ K 8

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

With the spade 10 led against the 3-No Trumps contract, what is West's best play?

Questions of Serving Answered

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please describe the serving of French artichokes? Is an extra plate provided for them and what is supposed to be done with the sauce?

Answer: Artichokes are served on a platter—just as asparagus or corn on the cob or any other boiled food is served—and a napkin folded to fit the center of the platter is put under the food, to absorb the water. A serving spoon and fork should, as always, be on the platter. This course is eaten alone either before or following the meat course, as you prefer. You put a whole artichoke on your plate, and wait until the Hollandaise sauce or possibly melted butter is passed to you. You put this on your plate at the side of the artichoke. Don't absent-mindedly pour the sauce on the leaves of the artichoke because you have to pull these off one by one in your fingers and dip them in the sauce. When you get down to the thistle part under the leaves, scraps this away carefully and eat the heart of it—just as you would eat half a boiled potato—putting sauce on it, cutting it and eating it with a fork.

Dear Mrs. Post: What is all this fuss made by some people about having to turn the cutting edge of the knife a certain way and the prongs of the fork up or down when one has finished eating? I've never thought it made any difference how the implements were left on the plate.

Answer: The fact that people make a great fuss over unconsidered trifles is one of the things that make the subject of etiquette seem not worth bothering about. The position of the cutting edge of the knife has no importance whatever except when the table is set. The cutting is then turned toward the plate because to do otherwise would turn the monogram underneath. To leave the prongs of the fork turned upwards is better merely because any other way seems upside down. The only important thing is that they shall be left side by side neatly and with their handles far enough in on the rim of the plate so that when the plate is removed there will be no danger of their toppling off.

Dear Mrs. Post: When giving a lunch at bridge tables, what type of water glass do you consider best? And is it necessary to provide water when having light refreshments in the afternoon or evening if coffee or some other beverages is served?

Answer: Tumblers and goblets are equally suitable so far as the setting of your tables is concerned. But tumblers are probably a little more practical than a taller glass, because there is a very limited amount of space around the places, and also, each person has to reach across for whatever has to be put in the center of the table. In addition to which the card table itself is often not as steady as a dining table. I think a big pitcher of water with a few glasses next to it should always be included for those who would like a drink of water but might hesitate to ask for one.
